EXPLOSION ON TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYER HOPKINS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 14.—A disastrous explosion occurred on the torpedo boat destroyer Hopkins, now at target practice at Magdalena Bay, Lower California. News of the explosion was received here to-day by wireless. The first reports gave no details, but said that five men had been killed.

A later report from the scene of the accident said that none had been killed, but that seven men had been injured, two fatally.

The Hopkins was recently ordered to Magdalena Bay with part of the Pacific squadron.

The bay lies almost at the tip of Lower California, and communication between it and the outer world is lacking save for wireless. It was there that the battleship fleet which cruised around the world stopped in the Spring of 1908 for target practice, breaking many records.

A request for particulars was dispatched by wireless to the commander of the ships at Magdalena Bay immediately upon receipt of the first news of the accident.

The Hopkins had been sent to Magdalena Bay for practice. She is attached to the Pacific torpedo fleet, of which Commander William A. Gill is the chief.

The Hopkins, which has twin screws and two torpedo tubes, is commanded, according to the navy register, by Lieutenant Ernest Frederick, with Ensign John A. Monroe and Midshipman Carter L. Wright next in command. The Hopkins was built in 1899.

She has a displacement of 408 tons and her 7,200 horsepower engines give her a speed of 29.02 knots. She cost $291,000.

Her armament consists of two 18-inch W. T. guns, two three-inch rapid firing guns and five six-pounder rapid firing guns.

ABANDON HUNT FOR LOST TUG

The greatest sea search ever made in the Atlantic for a missing vessel is about to be abandoned, it was said at the Charlestown Navy Yard this afternoon, leaving the fate of the navy tug Nina and her crew of thirty-two men another unsolved mystery of the deep.

The Nina started a week ago yesterday from Norfolk on her way to this port. In all forty naval and commercial vessels, ranging from battleships to tugs, have beat the coast in search of the missing tug in vain. Into every little cove where the imperilled boat might have made its way to safety have the revenue cutters steamed. But no trace—not a spar, not a floating piece of debris from the tug can be found.

Not only into the harbors have the searchers glided, but they have swept far out to sea, thinking perhaps that the missing boat had lost its rudder and had become a victim of the caprice of wind and wave. Flashing back from the scout ships by wireless have come the monotonous message—"No trace of the Nina, no trace of the Nina!"

Search Costs $10,000 a Day.

Fully $10,000 a day, it was estimated by a naval officer to-day, the search has cost. Ships that were in the yards for repairs have joined the search and the men who were to work on them have been idle.

The feeling is growing that a boat forty-three years old and carrying thirty-two men should not have been allowed to risk the turmoil of an Atlantic storm, especially when it was not equipped with wireless. Friends of the missing men on the boat spoke very bitterly around the navy yard this afternoon about this neglect.

Big Fleet of Searchers.

Torpedo destroyer Lamson, along New England coast.

The Castine and the supply ship Culgoa, from Boston to Block Island.

The Brooklyn Navy Yard tugs, the Apache and the Pontiac, the Jersey coast and Long Island.

Revenue cutters Gresham and Acushnet, from Cape Cod southward.

The anxiety felt for the little tug is increased by her age. She is 45 years old. One result of her disappearance, it was declared in naval circles to-day, will be a demand that every vessel belonging to the United States, whether tug or larger craft, be equipped with wireless. Had the Nina been able to whip out a C Q D or an S O S call, in the opinion of the experts, the men aboard her would not have faced the fate they are believed to have met.

GRAND JURY READY FOR MEAT INQUIRY

A sweeping investigation of the Beef Trust in Boston is to be begun to-day by the Suffolk County Grand Jury. In an effort to discover if violations of Massachusetts anti-trust laws are responsible for the high cost of living, the Grand Jury was called in special session.

Preceding the Beef Trust inquiry, the jurors took up the noted Crocker will case, but witnesses were ready this morning to appear in the meat inquiry, which it was said would be taken up immediately at the close of the will case. Lawyer William R. Scharton, secretary of the Boston "No Meat" Club, at whose instance District Attorney Pelletier decided to begin a criminal investigation, was one of these.

Scharton appeared at the District Attorney's office early to-day and had a conference with Pelletier and Assistant District Attorney Thomas Lavelle. Afterwards he was excused until later in the day. He would not reveal the facts he had laid before the District Attorney.

No Competition Here.

It was claimed, however, that a combination of packing house representatives fix prices simultaneously in Boston and that these prices govern the market, so that practically no meat can be sold at competitive rates. It has been charged, too, that the packing house combination controls shipments into Boston and so regulates them that abnormal prices may always be charged.

The investigation by the Grand Jury is the outcome of two large meetings at Faneuil Hall, when the people gathered to voice their protest at the high cost of living. Lawyer Scharton has collected evidence which he will lay before the Grand Jury, and which may be used as a foundation for further inquiry.

District Attorney Pelletier has declined to discuss the case in view of the Grand Jury investigation, but it is understood that meat dealers and packing house representative will be called before the inquisitors.

The Crocker case came up first to-day and it was predicted that if an indictment were found a sensational arrest might follow. The purpose of this inquisition is to get at the "man behind" the bribery in the will contest. William J. Hartnett of Jamaica Plain, formerly of East Boston, is the principal witness. He pleaded guilty to bribing a juror in the will contest and is awaiting sentence. He is expected to tell who instigated the alleged bribery.

Crocker Before Jury.

George J. Crocker, former Finance Commissioner and former City Treasurer, who was a beneficiary of the estate, was the first witness. He was before the jury an hour and a half. William E. Hingston, handwriting expert, followed him, and Police Inspector Armstrong was next on the list.

Other witnesses under summons were Lawyers Joseph Lundy, Thomas J. Hogan and William McInnice, the latter counsel for Joan J. Cronan of No. 21 Palmer street, Roxbury; Matthew F. Killian of Saratoga street, East Boston, the accused jurors in the case, and associate counsel for Hartnett.

Cronan was tried three years ago and acquitted of accepting a bribe of $50 while sitting as a juror. Killian, however, was convicted of receiving a bribe of $200 and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction.

The Crocker case has aroused extreme interest because of the prominence of the family, the amount involved and the accusations of bribery which led to the Grand Jury investigation. It has been in the courts since 1903. The late Uriel H. Crocker, lawyer, left a fortune of several million dollars. His will was disallowed by a jury in the Supreme Court six years ago. Mrs. Annie J. Crocker, the widow, petitioned for the reopening of the case on the ground that one of the jurors was convicted of accepting a bribe.

SEVEN RESCUED FROM J. S. HOSKINS IN GALE

Another crew of New England mariners, who were all but lost in the gale that reached its climax in Saturday's blizzard, arrived to-day at New York. They were the captain and six sailors of the 390-ton schooner J. S. Hoskins of Bath, Me., who fell afoul of the storm last week off old Cape Hatteras and had to abandon ship.

The wreck of the Hoskins happened in the course of the British steamer Ryan, coming up from Trinidad, and the Ryan rescued the seven Maine sailors.

The circulation of the AMERICAN is 200,000 more than its next highest competitor and 75,000 more than all the other evening papers of Boston combined.

STOCKS DROP AT OPENING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Heavy selling of stocks at the opening in Wall Street to-day caused a break of from one to three points in the standard railroad and industrial shares. The selling was attributed by many to President Taft's speech at the Republican Club Saturday night, when he made it plain that his attitude toward corporations had not changed.

The metal stocks were the chief sufferers. Amalgamated Copper declined 3⅛ points, while Smelters lost 2¾ and Anaconda 1½. Harriman shares were also weak, Union Pacific losing 2⅛ points and Southern Pacific 1⅞. Transactions in Steel common were on a large scale at a quotation 1½ points under Friday's closing, but 3½ points under the London closing price on Saturday.

Reading, on liberal sales, declined 1⅞ points, and specialties showed proportionate losses.

In London the weakness made its appearance first, and selling in the home market was heaviest in the coppers and Harriman issues. On the New York curb market mining shares opened fractionally lower.

VICTIM IN LUDLOW SHOOTING MAY DIE

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 14.—George Freeman, who last night shot Herbert E. White of East Ludlow, was arraigned before Judge Birdie in the District Court in Ludlow to-day upon the charge of shooting with intent to kill, and after not guilty was held for a hearing on February 28. Freeman, in a sullen mood, was taken back to the county jail in this city. He refused to make any statement. The twelve-year-old girl with whom he lived until she was placed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. White is equally reticent. She has so far refused to give the police any information about herself or Freeman, who is twenty-two and has lacked regular employment since he came here. Mr. White is in such a critical condition that to-day surgeons were afraid to move him to a hospital.

HUNT LOST CREW OF BOSTON SCHOONER

With all hope gone that the four-masted Boston schooner Auburn, Captain Charles W. Bates, will be found safe, the owners, Crowell & Thurlow, are straining every nerve to find some trace of the crew. They are confident that the men were saved because the schooner took a much tracked course in her passage from Jacksonville to Philadelphia. She carried a cargo of lumber. The schooner sailed from Jacksonville on December 19. It is the hope of the owners that the crew was picked up by a vessel bound for a foreign port. Captain Bates lives in South Brewster, Me.

ASQUITH WILL YIELD TO IRISH; WAR ON LORDS

LONDON, Feb. 14.—With King Edward preparing to take a vacation, Premier Asquith to-day resumed the task of outlining definitely his policy in the new Parliament.

A meeting of the cabinet was called to-day for the presentation to the ministers of the King's views, outlined to the Premier at Brighton. The King, it is known, is endeavoring to smooth out the political situation. It was declared to-day on good authority that the government had finally decided to accede to the demands of its supporters in the coalition—the Irish and the Laborites—and give the matter of curbing the Lords' precedence over the budget.

The last election returns were declared to-day, showing that Cathcart Wason, Liberal, was returned for Orkney and Shetland. The Liberals captured this constituency in the previous election. With the two major parties almost evenly divided, and the Laborites restive under the Liberal control, the controlling hand in the present situation is John E. Redmond, in spite of the revolt of the Healy and O'Brien elements in his party.

Delay of a few weeks on the budget will throw Great Britain into a financial tangle, which will probably wreak havoc and take years to wipe out.

There is a sentiment in some influential money quarters, however, to let the fight on the Lords take precedence with a view of deliberately allowing a snarl in the exchequer with the hope that the result will be a crushing blow to the Liberals and their overthrow.

According to the latest report Winston Spencer Churchill will succeed Mr. Gladstone in the Home Office, Augustine Birrell and John Burns retaining their present posts as Chief Secretary for Ireland and President of the Local Government Board, respectively.

BOSTON "L" WILL BUILD APARTMENTS

It is announced that the Boston Elevated road is contemplating building a big apartment house in Boylston street at the edge of the riparian boulevard in Cambridge. The proposed site is near the Stadium, opposite the house of the Weld Boat Club and at the approach to the new Boylston street bridge which, it is intended, will be the finest piece of architecture of its class in this part of the country. Plans under consideration were drawn by Robert S. Peabody and show a building three stories high with three apartments on each floor of each house, making about 125 suites in the entire structure.

PLOUFFE TELLS HIS OWN STORY AT DEATH TRIAL

WORCESTER, Feb. 14.—Raymond Plouffe, the young farmhand accused of the murder of Dr. Henry N. Stone, a Newburyport dentist, on the night of September 13, to-day took the witness stand on his own behalf.

The young man trembled at first, stammered and could hardly make himself heard. Under skillful questioning by his attorney he gradually regained his composure and told a well connected story.

John M. Maloney, his counsel, made him dwell most on how he got the $221 that was found on him when he was arrested. He explained that he had taken it out of the ground where he kept it buried, because he was going up to Manchester, N. H., to look at a farm which he contemplated buying.

Ran Away from Farm.

The defendant, speaking with a marked French-Canadian accent, went back to the beginning and told the whole story of his life.

"I am twenty-five years old and was born in St. Felix, Canada. Left an orphan at the age of seven in Fall River, I was sent to an orphan asylum and then boarded out on a farm at South Dartmouth. They treated me like a dog there and I ran away."

"I was thirteen years old then. I went to Tiverton, R. I., to Fall River, Swansea and finally to Newburyport, working on farms all the time."

Then he told of his meeting with Dr. Stone in Newburyport and the offer to let him have the doctor's milk route at Harvard. The young man said he got $200 from his sweetheart, Annie Churchill, and the doctor gave him credit on the rest.

"On the night of September 13 the doctor hitched up the rig and we started to the Ayer station, where he was to get the 9:07 train. We put on a box of apples which the doctor had picked during the day. The doctor drove.

"On the way he told me that he was thinking of selling some cows from the farm. Then he told me that he had changed his mind and that I could buy the cows myself. He offered to lend me $500 to buy the cows, and I was much pleased. He also told me that he had a lot of fodder to sell and wanted $125 for it. I offered him $100 and he seemed satisfied.

Engine Scared Horse.

"About this time we had reached the town of Ayer. I could see the train in the station, and told the doctor about it. He whipped up the horse and we made better time. It was the last train out and he wanted to get it.

"Just as we got into the station he stopped the horse and jumped out. I helped him with the box of apples, and he started for the train. I climbed back into the buggy, and before I had a chance to notice whether the doctor got the train the engine gave a puff and the horse got frightened and started off on the run.

"I did not see the doctor after that. I had all I could do to take care of the horse.

"I drove home and went to bed. The next day I wrote to Annie Churchill about the offer the doctor had made to sell me the cows and asked her to call on him at Newburyport. She had advanced the $200 I put into the milk route, and I thought she might advance some more to buy the cows."

The defendant then told what he did on the days after the night of the murder until he was arrested. He also explained how he happened to have so much money on his person when the police came for him.

Buried Money in Tin Box.

"I earned over $2 a day on the milk route," he said. "I saved it all because I got my board for working on the farm. In the month of May alone I cleared over $80.

"I kept all this money in a tin box buried under the ground in the garden. All my savings were there.

"On the day I was arrested I had gone to the tin box and taken out the money. It was $221. I was going up to Manchester, N. H., with a man named Henry Nutting to see a woman about buying a farm. He told me she had a mortgage on a farm, and the owner and she were both willing to sell. I had wanted to buy a farm all my life, and so I took out all my money and was going with him. Then I was arrested."

Mrs. Mabel F. Downing of Ayer testified that she met Dr. Stone on Main street in

INDIAN WAR MENACE NOW FOR BRITAIN

CALCUTTA, Feb. 14.—Revolt has broken out in Bastar, a feudatory State, and the contiguous country of the central provinces. Many have been killed in raids and pitched battles, according to advices received here to-day.

Reinforcements have been rushed and the police and troops have been ordered out from Sironcha and Jeypore. The tribesmen have descended on bazaars, police posts and schools, pillaging, burning and torturing. The uprising, which is spreading, began in the Bastar Hills, from which the bandits operate. Their headquarters are believed to be in the neighborhood of Narainpur. The first attacks were on towns near the source of the Godivari River.

After their sorties the bandits scurry back to the hills, and police, in spite of bravery and quick action, are unable to cope with the situation.

STEAMER IN CRASH, DRIFTS IN ICE FLOE

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The Sound steamer City of Fall River, bound here from Fall River, crashed into two big barges off Ninety-second street in the East River to-day, her starboard paddle wheel was disabled and she drifted helplessly into Hell Gate, surrounded by a big ice floe.

The tugboats had a hard time fighting their way through the ice floe and it took them more than two hours to open a passageway. The disabled steamer was then taken in tow and carried to drydock.

The City of Fall River is a freight boat and did not carry any passengers when the trouble occurred to-day.

MATTHEWS IS HEARD AGAINST INCOME TAX

Nathan Matthews is against the proposed income tax amendment because it will not prevent tax-dodging, he says. Matthews explained his opposite to the amendments at the hearing before the Legislative Committee on Federal Relations at the State House to-day.

Matthews told the committee that he would not oppose a tax which applied to intangible property. The income tax amendment, in its present form, would impose an unbearable burden on real estate owners, he said. A plain citizen, Avery Watson, tried to cross-examine Mr. Matthews at to-day's hearing.

The plain citizen strode across the room to the door. "This whole thing is a frame-up for you and your millionaire friends," he shouted, with his hand on the door knob. "You're the man that wants to run everything, you tax-dodger."

Hurried exit by the plain citizen.

Matthews and James S. Murphy, president of the Brockton and Poor Spice Company, were the only ones to oppose the income Tax to-day. The opposition will continue at 10:30 a. m. to-morrow.

The advocates of the Income Tax," said Matthews, "have directed their arguments principally to the necessity for a tax upon intangible property; the specific amendment now before the Legislature goes much further; in means simply that the farmer will have to pay a local tax on his property, and that he will also have to pay the national Government tax on the same property.

"He felt that the national government given this authority, will naturally tax from the property which is most easily reached, and this will, of course, be the land, and the basis of the tax will be the amount that the land can earn, rather than what it does earn.

"It may be true, as President Taft says, that Ohio can pay this added tax, but it does not hold true of Massachusetts, because this State is already raising twice as much by local taxation as its competitors. The local tax rate in Massachusetts is over one per cent, greater than in Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Indiana. It is already too high in this State in Massachusetts because it can in these States to-day."

OLEO SIGN MISSING, DEALER IS SENTENCED

John Wharton of No. 52 Dennis street, Roxbury, was sentenced to serve thirty days in the House of Correction and fined $100 by Judge Churchill in the Dorchester District Court to-day on the charge of selling oleomargarine without having the word "oleomargarine" displayed on his wagon. Attorney Watson appeared for Wharton, and the sentence was imposed in order that Wharton could be given until to-morrow to get bonds for his appearance.

COTTON MILL STOCK INCREASED $1,200,000

Stockholders of the Massachusetts Cotton Mills Company will hold a special meeting this noon in the office of Treasurer Edward Lowering at No. 53 State street and vote to increase the capital stock from $2,000,000 from $1,800,000. The additional $1,200,000 will be used in the construction of new buildings and installation of hundreds of additional looms in an elaborate plan of enlargement for the Lowell plant.

WHAT! WALKER TO ASSAIL RING AT BANQUET?

ALL INCOMING SHIPS REPORT TUG AS GONE

That Speaker Joseph Walker may talk like an anti-machinist, when he stands up before his fellow Republicans tonight at the American House, was the fear expressed today at the State House by Republicans who like to see their caucus conduct mapped out by Henry Cabot Lodge.

The Republicans in Senate and House will be dined tonight by the Republican State Committee. Walker is on the programme for one of the three set speeches. The others are expected from Senate President Allen T. Treadway, as "safe" as Cæsar himself, and Mayor Hatfield of Newton, chairman of the committee.

Those who have heard or read the recent speeches of the Speaker of the House declare that the ruling machine in Republican politics ought to have nothing to fix with him.

Turns Gun on Machine.

Machine Republicans who sit where they can see everything that Walker does at the State House, and hear all he says, declare that his continued advancement threatens the existence of the machine. These people say that Walker will be a leading candidate for the nomination for Governor a year from next Fall.

At Newburyport not long ago Speaker Walker not only declared his friendliness for such anti-monopoly legislation as is contained in the Hiegen bill, but, warning the dominant party, expressed the opinion that it was a bad thing to have the beef business, the oil business, or even the railroad business, in the hands of one man or one group of men. Some eminent Massachusetts Republicans, lodged by their associates and their votes, disagree with Walker on this subject.

To-night will be Walker's first opportunity to publicly himself directly to the Lodge-Crane machine. At the State House it is said that Mr. Lodge's Census and Shipping resolutions are in no sense Walker's work as they got last month from former Senator Scottinger of Connecticut.

Approves of Dallinger.

Dallinger protested against the action of the Republican State Committee meeting in January to "elect" officers who had been "picked" for them months in advance by the "leaders," and advertised as such in the daily papers. The Speaker of the House believes Dallinger was justified in every word of his protest.

The AMERICAN goes into more homes than all the other evening papers of Boston combined. It is the Quality newspaper.

Booth, a friend, of Ashland street, Malden, is the wife of John F. Gropham, chief boatswain of the Nina. She is hoping and praying that the Nina may have put into some port and that her husband and his companions are safe. Her friends fear that this is but the natural optimism of a wife who cannot bring her mind to believe that her husband has gone to the bottom of the sea.

Wife Still Has Hope.

"I have not slept for days and nights," said Mrs. Gropham. "I still have hope. I am praying every minute that my husband may be safe."

At the navy yard it was said that all the reports to the effect that the Nina had been seen since she left Norfolk were erroneous. Had she made for a haven of safety, it was pointed out, she would have been heard from by this time.

The only Massachusetts man on the Nina was John O. Hanson of No. 21 Prospect st., Worcester. His parents are the first broken with fear. They were expecting him home by this time, as he had arranged for a leave of absence after the Nina reached Boston. He was one of those who went around the world with the big fleet, being on the Illinois at that time.

For more than three days the wireless messages of the wrenching navy ships and revenue cutters have swept over a strip of ocean more than 700 miles in latitude and many more in longitude, but not one word of the tug has come from merchant ships crossing the path she would have traversed, and not one sign of wreckage has been sighted.

Twice now has the Nina go out into the storm left that her commander was taking a grave risk, and Capt. Jack Savage, the last to see her, turned back and sought shelter inside the capes, although she is as large as the Nina and built as sea-worthy. The sea never breaks any more than the Nina, the captain of the Savage said.

Officers of the United Fruit Company's steamship Limon, which arrived today from Colon, Costa Rica, said they had seen absolutely no trace of the missing Nina. The Limon passed the place somewhere to the east of the one the Nina would have been, but almost directly where the Nina would have been driven if she had become helpless. The Limon was bombed by many anxious inquirers for the Nina, but they had to leave disconsolate.

GLIDDEN DOUBTS TILLINGHAST CLAIMS

Charles J. Glidden, the first New England man to take up seriously the art of balooning and gentleman automobile, believes that Wallace E. Tillinghast, the alleged corporalist of Worcester, stands to-day as the Dr. Cook of the air. Said Mr. Glidden: "If any one would say it was a pleasure with Tillinghast on his flights, it would instill confidence in the man. But we of the Aero Club of America have seen unable to obtain a single fact in way of confirmation of Tillinghast's claims. Tillinghast told me that he would confide later me confirm the published accounts of his aerial voyages, and he positively declined a personal interview."

PNEUMONIA SERUM STANDS HARD TEST

Six more cases of ordinarily fatal cases of pneumonia by the serum pneumococci are reported from New York and add to the conviction held in Dr. Lorenz of Tufts College that the serum, which is his discovery, will ultimately be as serviceable in pneumonia and kindred diseases as the diphtheria serum is in that disease. The medical record touches on the cures reported by Dr. Henry A. Craig, assistant physician at the Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island. What adds to the value of these cases is that the patients all showed traces of marked alcoholism. Hitherto persons of alcoholic habits have succumbed generally when attacked by pneumonia.

TRIAL OF CALHOUN AGAIN UNDER WAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—The second trial of Patrick Calhoun, street railway magnate, for bribery, was called in Judge Lawlor's court to-day. Last week District Attorney Fickert moved to dismiss the indictment on the ground that there was not sufficient proof to secure a conviction. The court denied the motion. Calhoun and his counsel declared that they were ready for the trial and asked the Court to proceed with the impanelment of the jury. The jury in the first trial disagreed.

100 Killed or Wounded In Rioting at Canton.

CANTON, CHINA—The city is in a turmoil to-day as a result of the battle between the foreign-drilled Chinese soldiers and the city police. A Chinese naval force was landed and killed and wounded enough to number dozen rioters. The city is closed to foreigners for three days. Many Chinese are leaving for Hong Kong, fearing a general outbreak. Officials believe that the trouble is now quelled.

Cross Atlantic in Balloon.

MADRID—A dispatch to the Imparcial from Grenerife says that a German aeronaut named Brucker, Colonel Shack and Captain Meaner purpose to try to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible balloon. They will start from Orotava on October 5 for Porto Rico and thence to New York by way of Hartt, Cuba, Florida and Louisiana. This indirect course is dictated by the results of Professor Hergesell's recent observations of air currents in the West Indies.

World Cycle Championships.

PARIS—The championship contests have been arranged by the International Cyclist Union, now in annual session here, for July 17, 21 and 24. They will be held in Brussels. The 1911 championships will be held in Turin. The congress rejected the proposition of the American delegates that cyclists should be authorized to appeal to the International union in cases where the national bodies refused licenses.

Decoration for Dr. Holland.

ROME—Director William J. Holland of the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburg, Pa., has been decorated with the Commander of the Crown of Italy by direction of King Victor Emanuel of Italy. The cross was presented because of what Dr. Holland has done for science. Recently Dr. Holland took a replica of the Diplodocus to Italy for Mr. Carnegie, which pleased the King.

Oil Fuel in British Navy.

LONDON—The Admiralty is said to have decided definitely to substitute oil fuel for coal in the navy. It has placed an oil fuel order for 11,000,000 gallons, or 50,000 tons. This will be stored in new tanks recently erected on the dockyard side of Plymouth. The tanks have a capacity of 500,000 tons.

Sackville-West Suit Ends.

LONDON—Judge Bigham to-day dismissed the suit of Henry Sackville-West, who claimed to be the lighthaire son of the late Lord Sackville-West, by Pepita, a Spanish dancer. Several days ago the claimant withdrew his claim to the Sackville fortune and historic estate.

Ito's Assassin to Die.

PORT ARTHUR, Manchuria—Ichan Angan, the Korean editor who on October 26 last assassinated Prince Ito at Harbin, to-day was convicted of the crime and sentenced to death.

MILAN—Ruggiero Leoncavallo, the composer of "I Pagliacci," is dangerously ill and his death is feared. His brother has been summoned to Milan by telegraph.

LABOR

Miss Emily C. Balch of Wellesley has been re-elected president of the Boston Women's Trade Union League. The other officers are: Miss Agnes Nestor, first vice-president; Miss Anne Withington, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Morton, Miss Lucy Gilson, Miss Mary Wood, Miss Kitty O'Toole, Mrs. Philip Davis, Mrs. Mary Kenney O'Sullivan, Mrs. Alfred S. Clark and Mrs. Gertrude Evans, executive committee. The reelected Miss Mabel Gillespie as the secretary for the term. The league has showed good results for the year. Mrs. Raymond F. Fitzgerald spoke on "The Working Woman's Need of the Ballot."

Special calls are out to-day for a meeting of representatives of all trade unions in the State at Wells Memorial building on March 1 to take action on the labor bills now before the Legislature, especially the Democratic Legislative caucus and the Representative Robert Luce and introduced by Myron E. Pierce. The calls are signed by Dennis D. Driscoll, secretary-treasurer of the Massachusetts State Branch of the A. F. of L. It is said that the labor men will offer a substitute for the Luce bill.

Trade unionism has a new recruit in Boston to-day in a local of custom tailors, following an organizing meeting of the men of that craft at No. 15 Lovell street yesterday. The union will receive a charter from the United Garment Workers' Union. The officers elected were Simon Kachinsky, president; Simon Goodnicky, vice-president; Henry Cohen, financial secretary and organizer; Israel Horwitz, recording secretary; Abraham Napoleon, treasurer. The charter list has fifty names.

Notices that a standard minimum wage of $3 a day for specialists, $2.50 for allround machinists and $2 for helpers, toolmakers and machinists employed in the city State, printing, brewery and other special departments on June 1, are being sent to the employers in Greater Boston to-day by Boston Lodge 264 of Machinists. This action follows a special meeting of the men union at Wells Memorial Hall yesterday, attended by 800 members.

Richard G. Stearns and Fred E. Perry have been elected by Old Colony Lodge, Brotherhood of Railroad Clerks, as candidate and alternate, respectively, to the convention of the brotherhood to open at New Orleans in April. It is the general impression in the camp of the eight Boston local railroad clerks will send a delegate to the convention. All will unite in an effort to bring the next convention, which will be in 1912 to Boston.

Every member of Boston Photo Engravers' Union, No. 3, was present at its meeting last night when the fifty-eighth name was added since the last meeting of the union. Louis A. Rosenthal, of Chicago, general organizer, and B. J. Brady of New York, secretary of the Allied Printing Trades Council of that city, but previous to his election to that office was a photo engraver for the Photo Engravers, addressed the meeting.

"Regular extra" men employed in the sanitary and street cleaning departments of the city soon will be classified as "regulars," Fitts is stated by the officials of the mens union, following a conference with the civil service commissioners. Some of those men have been employed as regular extras for more than a year.

In an official statement issued by Michael J. O'Meara, secretary-treasurer of District Assembly 26, K. of L., original, emphatic denial is made of the rumored withdrawal of the charter recently granted by the Knights of Labor to the teamsters of the waterfront.

Revere Carpenters' Union, Local No. 846, has endorsed Thomas C. Sizer for councilor at the coming election, as well as W. H. Meyers and Louis Bock for selectmen.

SAILORS NEAR DEATH AS FIRE DESTROYS SHIP

The crack T wharf fishing schooner, Louisa Cabral, lies a charred wreck at the bottom of Provincetown Harbor. Fire which started in her forehold swept through the craft in a flash and gave two sailors who were sleeping on board barely time to escape in one of the dories.

During the day the United States gunboat Castine was in Provincetown lower harbor, where she had put in temporarily after marching at the naval base at Nina. The Castine was quite a way from the Cabral, too far to get under way and be of any assistance.

The Louisa Cabral was a two-master, one of the fastest fishermen of all that put in at T wharf. She was skippered by Captain John Fillies, was owned by Manuel Costa and others, and was valued at $8,000.

Captain Fillies and all of his crew except the two men mentioned above went ashore after the Cabral anchored in Provincetown upper Harbor late Saturday night. Fresh bait for her had been put aboard ready to start on the 2 o'clock tide Sunday morning. Wet clothing was drying by the kitchen stove. This clothing ignited.

The two sailors, awakened from sleep, tried to extinguish the flames, but were unable to. Getting out one of the dories, they rowed ashore and gave an alarm. The fire was sweeping through the hull and raging by this time, making a vivid picture against the darkness. The vessel was burned to the water's edge. Then she sank.

ROUT BURGLARS IN PISTOL FIGHT IN SOUTHBRIDGE

SOUTHBRIDGE, Feb. 14.—A pistol duel in the dark between three robbers and a policeman followed a daring attempt to break into the Southbridge Postoffice early to-day.

Patrolman Coughlin stood within ten yards of the men and emptied his revolver at them. The robbers replied with a fusillade. Several shots were exchanged. Coughlin was not hit and is said to be not believed that any of the men were wounded.

Coughlin finally made a dash through the bullets at the men and they fled. He turned down Elm street toward the Connecticut line, firing as he ran, the men firing back as they sped him in the dark.

The only clew to the robbers is a clubel which they left near the postoffice door, through which they tried to enter the office. This was found by Patrolman Paul Coughlin to be the nightmare son of the late Lord Sackville-West, by Pepita, a Spanish dancer. Several days ago the claimant withdrew his claim to the Sackville fortune and historic estate.

The robbers got their first fright from William Cook, a night watchman employed by the American Optical Company. He came upon the men while on a lighted street and passed in front of the postoffice. He did not recognize them at first and went out as it seemed to cause as he approached, he did not know how about it.

The delay due to waiting for him to pass is believed to have prevented the robbers getting into the office.

A few minutes after Adams passed Coughlin appeared on the scene and fired dust began.

The police of the neighboring towns have been notified and the officers from this place are pursuing the men toward the Connecticut line.

TOO MANY UNFIT TO WED, WARNS RABBI

Rabbi Charles Fleischer of the Temple Israel on Commonwealth avenue, told his congregation that young people of to-day are married without a sufficient knowledge of the duties and responsibilities of parenthood. He said: "The average young married people are about as well prepared for the awful responsibility of parenthood as Mr. Morgan's office boy would be ready to become at once the millionaire's partner. To this end parenthood should not be intrusted to the ill-educated, the ill-balanced, the ignorant, devoted and religious. For parents to pass on poor physique, low intelligence, unholy predilections or other vicious or weak traits of character, or less than the fullest spiritual heritages of which they are capable, is a crime as great as any assault upon human dignity and human welfare against which the race must learn to defend itself."

BANISH POWDER AND MIRRORS, SAYS PRIEST

SPENCER, Feb. 14.—Mirrors and powder puffs and other adjuncts so dear to the feminine heart should be removed from My Lady's boudoir, according to the Rev. William C. McCaughan of the Holy Rosary Church of Spencer. In a sermon which is calling forth much comment in this section of the clergyman said, addressing mothers:

"If daughters are allowed to patronize cheap shows or spend their evenings in places that are known low and vulgar, is it to be wondered scandals follow? The cheap novels, foolish magazines and programs of cheap amusements should be banished from the boudoirs of your houses. Let the mirrors, powder boxes and other adjuncts of foolish frailty be banished."

VESSEL GROUNDS; NO LOSS.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Feb. 14.—The four-masted schooner Rose M. Grant, Newport News for Boston, while entering this harbor in a strong westerly wind, ran ashore on West Chop, near the lighthouse. The tug Richmond went to her assistance and towed her to an anchorage in the harbor, apparently unhurt.

DIABETES

From late figures the hope of recovery under the new emollient treatment seems to be based on fact.

In people of sixty and over results are quite satisfactory, while under twenty-five, which at sixty and over a large majority of all cases yield to the treatment, but in persons between thirty and forty the cases are stubborn, and between thirty and forty the percentage is but a possibility of cures.

Under thirty the percentage is less and in children recoveries have been very few and most of those were obtained with the aid of skilled physicians forcing nutrition, with alkaline treatment to prevent formation of acetones.

The new emollient treatment is known as Fulton's Diabetic Compound. It can be had in Boston at all the Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores.

We desire every patient to write us who is not getting the usual improvement by the third week. Always state age. Literature mailed free. Jas. J. Fulton Co., 645 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

SCIENTIST WHO IS SURE PLANET MARS IS INHABITED NOW

LOWELL FINDS NEW PROOF OF LIFE ON MARS

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Announcement of final proof that the planet Mars is inhabited was made by Professor Percival Lowell, of the famous Martian expert and director of the observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., to Chicago astronomers, as he passed through the city, and to-day it has caused a stir in astronomical circles.

Professor Lowell announced that he had seen and photographed a new canal last Summer, showing, he declared, that it had just been completed by the Martians, water had just been turned into it, and vegetation had just sprung up in a hitherto uninhabited part of the great desert, which connects most of the planet's surface.

Previous photographs of this region made as late as last May failed to show any trace of the new canal. The fact is that it developed between May and September, when it was first observed.

Professor Lowell regarded this as a precise proof that it was artificial and therefore that living beings exist in the neighboring planet.

Professor Lowell stopped here on his way west and conferred with Professor S. agreed to-day after being out nearly two days.

WOMAN SAYS CLAIMANT IS NOT RUSSELL

Another witness—Mrs. Susie M. Damon of No. 32 Poplar street, Melrose—testified in the Russell will case before Judge Lawton at East Cambridge that she knew Daniel Blake Russell by sight long years ago, and that the claimant now in court was not the Daniel Blake Russell she knew.

Mrs. Damon said that she went to Melrose High School in 1881. She said that Daniel Blake Russell was light complexioned, of delicate build, medium height, long and narrow face and eyes possibly blue to grey. He was retiring, quiet and dignified. Her description of personal appearance is in contrast with the present appearance of the claimant.

She told Senator Simpson, for the claimant, that she had never spoken to Russell, but remembered him because of his resemblance to her brother. She said that she did not know William C. Russell, the respondent.

Charles E. Comer, principal of Comer's Commercial College, was recalled by Senator Simpson and asked as to whether Daniel Blake Russell attended his school in 1879 or in 1880. He said he had no distinct recollection of his attendance at school.

Ferdinand C. Almy, one of the executors of the will and one of the most important witnesses, was called this forenoon.

4,000 IDLE IN SHUT DOWN AT WATCH WORKS

Four thousand men will be thrown out of work for ten days by a shut-down which takes effect February 19 at the Waltham Watch Company's shops. This is the third large shut-down in as many months, and is caused, according to officials of the company, by overproduction. The men will return to work on March 1. For the past three months the company has been running steadily, shutting down for the fourth in the most of the departments.

The company, according to its officials, has 125,000 watch movements in its vaults and has been making them at the rate of 2,000 a day. This is more than the present demand. President Fitch is at present traveling in Europe and the present curtailment will probably be continued until his return.

DISAGREE ON HERRMANN.

ENGLISHMAN'S BOOK CHURNS BACK BAY IRE

Wrath ran riot through Back Bay and Beacon Hill parlors and such conservative clubs as the Somerset, Union and Puritan all day to-day at the frightful hammering which James Henry Stark of Dorchester—an Englishman at that—has administered to the Revolutionary ancestors of some of the finest families of Boston.

Mr. Stark has written a book. He calls it "Loyalists of Massachusetts and the Other Side of the American Revolution."

To-day the descendants of John Hancock, of Samuel Adams, of the Cabots of old Beverly, and of other distinguished men are calling Stark's book more things than this family paper would dare to print.

Mr. Stark, who is a student of American history and a man of the courage of his convictions, says things about our Boston ancestors for which he ought, from a blue-blooded standpoint, to be impeached.

Just Show Him!

For instance, he says:

"John Adams joined the disaffionists because he saw that, if the Revolution was successful, there would be great opportunity for place-seeking."

He lists Samuel Adams as a never-do-well and a defaulting tax collector.

He says that John Hancock was also a defaulter as treasurer of Harvard College.

He declares that Benjamin Franklin, at the venerable age of sixty-seven, was fired as postmaster of Boston because he stole letters from the mail.

Smugglers Among Signers.

Finally, Mr. Stark lays our whole colonial system clear to its foundation walls by saying:

"One-fourth of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were bred to trade or to the command of ships, and more than one of them was branded with the epithet 'smuggler.'"

The Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the American Revolution is expected to will take up cudgels in defense of the ancestral incubus. Meanwhile Mr. Stark sits in his office at No. 254 Savin Hill avenue, smiles with serene assurance that he has caught and severed precisely both the goods.

The S. A. R., S. R., the D. R. and the D. A. R. all are surprised and sore at Mr. Stark for the irreverence he has shown in which he has delved into history and shown up, as he purports, men whom descendants are boasting of their patriotic ancestry.

The Stark Pedigree.

James Henry Stark lives at No. 254 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester, and is a native of Surrey, England. He has been in this country since he was nine years old. He retired ten years ago from the presidency of the Photo-Electrotype Company. He is founder and chairman of the Dorchester Historical Society, vice-president of the Antiquarian Club, president of the British Charitable Society and is also a member of the British American Association, New England Historical Genealogical Society, South Boston Yacht Club and Savin Hill Yacht Club. He has traveled extensively.

Extracts from his new book are:

"Samuel Adams was a man of broken fortunes, a never-do-well in his private business, a failure as a tax collector, the only public office he had time for which he failed to discharge."

"Had the revolution failed, the disgrace of the men who threw the tea overboard (Boston Tea Party) would never have been removed, and the best that history could say of them would be that, like the Africanders, they were enthusiasts without reason."

"In 1775 John Hancock was elected treasurer of Harvard College. In this they considered their patriotism more than their prudence. The amount of college funds paid over to him was upwards of £15,400, and, like his friend, Samuel Adams, he, also, proved to be a defaulter. For twenty years the corporation begged and entreated him to make restitution. They threatened to prosecute, but failed to put his bond in suit, as Adams's was, but it was all of no avail. He turned a deaf ear to their entreaties, and it was only after his death, in 1795, that his heirs made restitution to the college, when a settlement was made in 1795, in which the college lost $526 interest."

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

Old Saint Valentine

By Nell Brinkley

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal Examiner

He sits all day, patient and lenient, listening to the worries of the lovers

THE day that we've sanctified out of old time, old romance, old custom, and lugged along with us like a lost lamb under our pladdie, is the postmaker's day.

And the penpusher is the old Saint Valentine.

He sits all day in his bedecked and arrow box with the little diamond blinds, fat and patient and lenient, in his inner and black cloth, his cupids pulls off for more ease to his world-waying feet, his staff leant in the corner, his thumbs together, with a heart that will stick any wickedness you have done in the deeps that will keep on the surface the meagre bubbles of the good of you and distill them into balm for the loves of you.

"Saint Valentine," you whisper through the little diamond blinds, "I'm a bad rogue—I haven't spoken to her for two weeks. I was in the wrong. I'm sorry—for I love her as the red deer loves the bourbin, as the pine loves the red soil of the West."

Then Saint Valentine whispers back with the radiance of his saint-circle lumining out into your face, "Do the penance of throwing away your haughty pride—and tell her what you've told me—send a nougat of the violets she likes best—and a love letter along of it. And your unpeasy spirit will leave off its tossing and will sing like a lark-in-the-morning.

"'Tis a grand day for lovers, 'tis the day to set everything right. 'Tis the day that if you're never told her you loved her and you're afraid to, to make a big penitence to me for the coward heart of you and climb up her front steps this very day and do it.

"'Tis the day that if you've kept him kicking on the end of your string, my dear, with your mind flouncing hither and thither, to tell me your sarcy, and make it up—the mind!"

"Saint Valentine," you whisper through the little diamond blinds, "sure, I'm the mean, cruel girl—I teased him beyond mortal standing. And then, when I'd done all this wickedness, I flirted scandalous with the O'Hara lad down the road. And I'm sorry this day."

And Old Saint Valentine leans close to your pink ear and whispers, "Then scratch him a note, my dear. And after the page is finished, put a little dot at the end—and it will take all the born out of your hearts."

Sure 'tis the grand day for lovers. Bury your pride deep and put a stope atop of it—and then do what you're aching to do. Send her a love letter and a valentine.

There'll be no shame to you—for this is the day!

NELL BRINKLEY.

SMITH DOUBTFUL ABOUT A STORM

Forecaster Smith of the weather bureau has no knowledge of the general storm followed by a severe cold wave, warning of which was issued in a special bulletin today from Washington. Mr. Smith did say, however, that there is at present an area of low pressure extending east from the Pacific to Kansas and south to Texas. This indicates a storm with the center in Idaho, where a light fall of snow was recorded. This, however, does not have the appearance of being a severe disturbance.

The Washington bulletin says that a severe storm will sweep over the country this week reaching Boston Friday. It says it will be followed by a cold wave of great severity.

FIREMAN HURT, OIL IMPERILS LIFE AT BLAZE

One fireman was severely hurt and ten others in the four-story stores of No. 95 Endicott street badly frightened as the result of a small fire at 10 o'clock to-day in the basement store on the ground floor owned by Ralph Brogman.

The injured man, Hosman Darragh of Engine Company No. 8 on Leverett street, was caught between one of the doors and the side of the door as the apparatus was swung out of the house to respond to the alarm. He was so badly crushed that it was necessary to remove him to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

The fire had got a good start before the firemen arrived, but they were able to control it in the lower room. The greatest danger was that the fire would reach a large kerosene tank. This was removed by Brogman and others at the peril of their lives.

The smoke curled up through the apartments over the store and gave the tenants a fright. The fire was quickly put out.

City Hall Notes

There is little doubt but that the City Council will act favorably upon Mayor Fitzgerald's desired pension of the old ordinances, changing the number of principal assessors from nine to five. The question now being discussed at City Hall is: Which four of the nine will feel the axe? The general impression seems to be that Assessors Bonnett and Andrew will be two of the four victims of the latest request of the Finance Commission.

To-night's meeting of the Mayor and City Council will be held in the councilmanic chamber. It will be for the citizens of the North, West and South Ends and the Back Bay. Now that City auditor Jackson has reported that the Common Council chamber is perfectly safe, it is believed that the Mayor will induce the members of the Council to hold their regular sessions there.

Mayor Hibbard started the plan of a smokeless administration at the Mayor's office, and Mayor Fitzgerald is keeping it up. It was the custom to offer all mayor's visitors cigars, but Mayor Fitzgerald does not smoke nor does his secretary, so that the inner sanctum of the chief executive is free from the usual aroma of a new City Hall administration.

William R. Whalen, president of Engineers' Union No. 16, is a candidate for superintendent of the main drainage works at Calf Pasture to succeed Silas W. Robinson, who is said to be slated for the axe shortly. Whalen was one of the Fitzgerald spellbinders in the recent campaign.

The principal assessors have not yet filled the vacancy in the clerical force caused by the recent death of Jeremiah Fogarty. Arthur Fogarty, who assisted his father in the work, is the principal candidate for the position. It pays $2,500 per year.

HUNT TWO MEN FOR TRAGEDY AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 14.—Every city in the East was notified to-day to hunt down William M. Seyler, a married man, and his young brother, Arvis, in connection with the death of eighteen-year-old Jane Adams, whose body was found on the beach here yesterday clad in a bloody gown, with a wound over the left eye that penetrated the skull.

The girl disappeared after a dance at the million-dollar pier on February 4. The following day her body was found on the beach.

A half-hour later she started to return to the dancing pavilion, but William Seyler induced her sister to remain with him.

When the mother applied for a warrant for William Seyler's arrest it was discovered that the brother had disappeared.

WORTH KNOWING

Simple But Powerful Prescription for Rheumatism and Lame Back.

This was previously published here and many of the worst cases of rheumatism and backache were completely cured in a short time by its use.

"Get one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound; then get a half pint of good whiskey and add the two other ingredients to it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bedtime. Shake the bottle each time before using." The good effects of this treatment are said to be felt after the first doses but it should be continued until permanent results are assured. Any good druggist has these ingredients in stock or will quickly get them from his wholesale house.

SENATORS DENY 'KICKING' ON TARIFF PLAY

Two New England senators have had fingers in the Payne-Aldrich yarn, all of which was supposed to "reduce the tariff downward" but instead "jobbed it up worse," have been portrayed in a play written by Preston Gibson of Washington in a way that has made the statesmen exceedingly hot under the collar, according to dispatches from the capital.

The real secrets that only autocrats of the tariff-jobbing regime do know have been told in Mr. Gibson's play. It is said. It came to the ears of the Senators when a copy of the work was found lying about on and they called upon the playwright.

The Senators tried to produce the play but they only succeeded in doing it in the way they "produced" the tariff, and the Washington correspondents are said to have shown the editors the nearest exit. Now all Washington and New England circles in New England are agog as to the identity of the senators.

Put It Up to Senators.

The BOSTON AMERICAN stood all of the New England Senators, outlining the story and asking them if they knew anything about the proposed expose in the new play.

Senator Lodge thinks that it is an advertising dodge. He says:

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14, 1910.
Editor Boston American:

Have not met Mr. Preston Gibson since he was a boy; should not know him if I met him. Have not read play and waiting a play. Have never talked with Mr. Gibson about tariff bills. Have never been to his house. Do not know whether play is true story or utterly false and mere invention so far as I am concerned. Speaking generally, it appears to be pure publicity. Should suppose it to be simply an advertising device.

(Signed) H. C. LODGE.

Page Thinks It Fake.

Senator Carroll S. Page, of Vermont, comes along with this:

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14, 1910.
Editor Boston American:

Story absolutely without foundation so far as my knowledge extends. Never heard of it directly or indirectly until your telegram received. Don't it a fake?

(Signed) CARROLL S. PAGE.

Senator Hale of the Pine Tree State came across with this:

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14, 1910.
Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dispatch received. I know nothing whatever of the matter you mention and have no acquaintance with the person named. EUGENE HALE.

Gallinger Not Interested.

Here is Senator Gallinger's reply:

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14, 1910.
Editor Boston American:

Not interested in Preston Gibson's play and know nothing about the inside cuteness.

(Signed) J. H. GALLINGER.

News to Frye.

It likewise is news to the aged Senator from Maine, Mr. Frye:

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14, 1910.

Says She Met Doctor.

A rigid cross-examination of Mrs. Downing failed to alter her testimony. Under direct examination she told this story:

"I was home the night of September 15th particularly. I recall it on account of the fire that night. I went to the home of Mrs. Fletcher and won her fortune with cards. I left her house about 9 o'clock and started home down East Main street. At the corner of Pine street I met Dr. Stone. I am positive that it was he because I have known him for years.

"I am sure that I could not have made a mistake because on that corner there is a big gas light. There is also another light on the tree at that corner. I met Dr. Stone right under the light and got a good look at him. He was carrying a large box tied with a cord.

"Two nights after that, or perhaps it was the next night, I was again at Mrs. Fletcher's and I told her of meeting Dr. Stone."

Under cross-examination Mrs. Downing was asked if she had spoken to Dr. Stone. She said that she had not because she did not like the man and did not want to speak to him for that reason.

Mrs. Ida Fletcher, to whose house Mrs. Downing went on the night of the murder, was the next witness. She told how Mrs. Downing came to see her a few nights after the murder and spoke of seeing Dr. Stone on the night of the fire. She said the witness, "who do you suppose I saw the other night? It was Dr. Stone, and he was going in the direction of the yard carrying a large box."

Under cross-examination Mrs. Fletcher was asked why she did not tell of this conversation when she first heard of the fire setting the murder. She said it was because her husband had told her not to get mixed up in a murder case. Mrs. Downing gave the same reason for not telling.

LYNN GIRLS SELL TAGS ON STREETS

To-day was Valentine Tag Day in Lynn for the benefit of the Florence Crittenden Rescue Home in Swampscott. High school and grammar school girls sold valentine tags about the streets for a nickel or for all they could get. They gathered a good sum. The work was planned for last Saturday, but was postponed by the storm. The high school girls were out all the afternoon. The grammar scholars joined when the last session was over. The women of thirty-three churches in Lynn and Swampscott lent a hand in the movement, with Mrs. Ruth A. Shinner as chairman.

FIREBOAT IS STUCK ANSWERING ALARM

The lifeboat which is on the department list as Engine 37, was responding to alarm from box 647 to-day when it got stuck in the mud at Meridian street bridge. A tug boat released her without damage. The alarm was rung in because a lamp exploded in the kitchen of the two-story wooden dwelling house at No. 56 Falcon street, East Boston, occupied by Herbert Smith. The damage is estimated at $25.

300 ARRESTED IN SOCIALIST RIOTS

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—More than 300 persons are in jail to-day as the result of the Social Democratic demonstrations against the government's stand on electoral reform yesterday, in which fourteen persons were injured, and riots are still going on to-day. The Social Democrats in the Reichstag have decided to interpolate Chancellor Bethmann Hollweg in regard to the use of troops by the police in dispersing the crowds.

"BILLY" OF LYNN IS LUCKY HORSE, SURE

LYNN, Feb. 14.—"Billy," a big black horse owned by Thomas Cassidy of this city, is about the luckiest animal that ever lived. He was struck by a train at the Market street crossing here to-day, dragged thirty-five feet and here is where the lucky part comes in—escaped unhurt.

"Billy," driven by William Leach, was crossing the tracks when he fell on the ice. A receding tender hurried down the track and dragged a passenger train that was coming into the station. Although the engineer reversed the throttle the heavy train slid along the slippery rails, striking "Billy" and carrying the frightened animal well into the station.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

Double Legal Stamps Forenoons

POISONED BY PRICKING PIMPLE

With a Pin—Inflammation Set In and Itching, Pain and Swelling Followed—Unable to Rest Day or Night—Suffered Six Months—Relieved in a Day and Wholly

CURED BY CUTICURA ON SISTER'S ADVICE

"Several years ago I had a little pimple come between my ankle and knee. I opened it with a pin which caused it to inflame. In a short time my limb was so poisoned and swollen I could scarcely use it. I suffered intense pain, being unable to rest day or night. I tried every remedy recommended, consulted several physicians but grew worse all the time, finding no relief in anything.

"My sister recommended the Cuticura Remedies. Before using the Cuticura Remedies according to directions and I was much relieved that I slept some the first night. The itching, burning and swelling in my limb gradually decreased and I felt the sore began to heal. After six months' suffering such as I had endured, the relief was wonderful. I continued the treatment several weeks and a permanent recovery was the result. I shall ever recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one suffering from blood and skin diseases. (Mrs.) D. M. Mast, R. F. D. 5, Goldsboro, N. C., Oct. 25, '09."

LOOTED BANK DEPOSITORS TO ASK RECEIVER

SOUTHBRIDGE, Feb. 14.—Counsel for 350 depositors of the Southbridge Savings bank will to-morrow file with Attorney General Dana Malone, at the State House, Boston, a petition for a receiver for the looted bank.

Attorney Peter T. Dolan, representing the depositors who are dissatisfied with the 85 per cent. offer of the savings bank trustees, declares that if the Attorney General fails to take the action requested he is ready to avail himself of the law which allows any one of the depositors to petition the court for the appointment of a receiver.

Many of the depositors who have neither signed the petition for the appointment of a receiver nor the agreement to accept 85 per cent. of their deposits are awaiting a statement from Bishop Thomas D. Beaven of Springfield who is considering the interests of the Catholic depositors. Rev. I. O. Trigiano and Rev. Emile A. Stonge, pastors of the French churches, have issued warnings to their parishioners to be careful in signing petitions or statements of any kind which may have any effect upon their holdings in the bank.

There is much interest in the hearing at the State House this afternoon on the order introduced by Representative Carl Augustus of Everett, who will be supported by Representative Dugan of Webster and two representatives from Worcester.

Five hundred dollars will cover the maximum shortage in the town accounts of John A. Hall, former town treasurer and ex-treasurer of the savings bank, according to the report made to the Board of Selectmen by Robert C. Campbell of Boston, the expert accountant who has been investigating the books.

SIX ESCAPE FLAMES NEAR TANKS OF OIL

Six people were aroused from their beds and forced to flee into the street when an oil lamp overturned and caused a fire that almost destroyed the two-story wooden dwelling at No. 431 Chelsea street, East Boston, early to-day. All and narrow escapes and were partially overcome by smoke before they reached the street.

Tongues of flame from the burning building swept half way across the street and threatened to spread to the monster oil tanks of the Standard Oil Company, directly opposite. The East Boston ear barns adjoining were licked by the flames, but the quick work of the firemen, who realized the danger if the flames reached the oil tanks, kept the flames from spreading.

Inmates of the thickly populated tenement houses in the vicinity that were also threatened fled from their homes in a panic, and the neighborhood was filled with excitement.

The family of John Dryden, who occupied the burned dwelling, were asleep at the time the fire broke out. Mr. Dryden was awakened to find the house filled with smoke. He quickly aroused the rest of the family, consisting of his wife, two sons, James and William, a daughter, Hattie, and a baby, Alice. All were affected by the smoke and were awakened with difficulty.

While the rest of the family made their way from the house in safety, Mrs. Dryden picked up Alice, the baby. Mr. Dryden seized James in his arms and staggered down the stairs through the smoke to the street. All were cared for by the neighbors.

WHITE JACKET BRIGADE MAY GO ON STRIKE

The fate of the gin-fizzers, the cocktailers, the julepers, the highballers and the rest of the mixed drink delegation hangs in the balance to-day, for this is the last call for the proprietors of three places to sign the 1910 wage scale and working agreement of the bartenders.

If the bosses don't sign, the wage scale and working agreement committee of Boston Bartenders' Union No. 77 is empowered by the union to order out the bartenders on strike.

If the bartenders go on strike, what will the patrons do? Those who take their "straight" can buy at wholesale in the original package and run a home bar. But those who depend on the skill of their favorite "mixer" hope and pray that the boss will sign.

It looks now as though all the bosses would come into line. At last accounts only seven were recalcitrant.

The 1910 schedule of the union calls for a minimum wage of $18 a week for all men, a minimum work hour week of sixty hours and for overtime at the rate of thirty-three cents an hour. Sunday and holiday work is to be paid at the rate of 33 a day and forty-five cents an hour for overtime.

REPUBLIC'S ADVICE TO JOB HUNTERS

Prospective office seekers are reading with interest the following paragraph in the current issue of The Republic, Mayor Fitzgerald's weekly newspaper: "The number of lucrative positions at City Hall is very few compared to the opportunities in the business life of the city. Ninety per cent. of people who can be put to work in City Hall are common laborers at $2.25 per day. In view of the fact that this is less than one-half the wages paid by many of the trades in this city to-day, the demand for employment of this kind ought to grow constantly less. Certainly with the present high cost of living, the seeking of employment at this wage is not good judgement. One of the pleasantest features of the municipal contest just ended is the fact that practically all of the men who held 'blanket jobs' under former administrations were Storrow men. These gentlemen will now work for a living."

FIRST WINTER CARNIVAL BY FROST PICTURE

Boston's first Winter Carnival is to be held to-morrow night at the Twin-Elm estate in Lexington. Society is sponsor for the event. The carnival will be all hockey games, the curling contests, the sliding and the tobogganing matches are to go to the Boston Flying Club Hospital fund so that more sick babies will get coal, or something down the harbor next June or so, when the city's heat is lifting.

The Twin-Elm estate has been made over from the centre of Lexington, is easily accessible by auto, sleigh, "pung," buggy carriage or wagon. Thousands are arranging to go by trolley and train and then take the "pungs" for Twin-Elm.

The patronesses include Mrs. Ebes S. Draper, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Mrs. Bryce J. Allan, Mrs. Oliver Ames, 2d, Mrs. Robert S. Bradley, Mrs. W. A. Bancroft, Mrs. Harcourt Amory, Mrs. Arthur Astor Carey, Mrs. Curtis Guild, Jr., Mrs. Richard D. Jordan, Mrs. Robert M. Morse, Mrs. Robert T. Paine, 2d, Mrs. Philip L. Saltonstall, Mrs. Richard D. TECH BOYS TO PLAY IN "CANNIBAL ISLES"

"The Queen of the Cannibal Isles" will be the name of the piece to be produced by Tech students this year at their annual show. The cast will include the following: Robert Schlich...Charles F. Kerr Catonsville, Md. Henrietta Dean.....Harold B. Kemp, Roxbury The Queen's Guard.....Monroe R. Pevear, Boston Lieutenant Jack Gordon.....John S. Selfridge, San Francisco Henry Schlick.....Frederick Dalton, Boston Hilston Janet.....William M. Schofield, Newton Lord Leighton.....Albert Bullock Mandy Singh.....Karl D. Bornstrom, Norfolk, Va. Wong Singh.....Donald C. Hall, Boston Dallo Gour.....Harold E. Kribben, Boston Sergeant-at-Arms King.....Marcel S. Richard, Bengalen Royal Chefs.....Lester D. Cushman, Medford Scribe.....Clarence A. Stewart, Boston

The show will be under the general management of Dudley Clapp, '10, and will be given twice in the Shubert Theatre in this city, once in Northampton, before Smith College girls; once in Malden, and probably once in Providence. It is hoped to clear $1,000 for the Tech Athletic Association. John S. Selfridge, who is one of the cast, is a brother of the late Lieutenant Selfridge of the United States Signal Corps, who was killed by a fall from a Wright aeroplane two years ago at Fort Myers. Another brother, Samuel W. Selfridge, will be in the show chorister.

DEFIES COURT ORDER TO SUPPORT WIFE

After he had been ordered in the Chelsea Police Court to-day to pay his wife $6 a week in addition to non-support, Frank J. McGlone shouted: "I will never pay her a copper! I'll go to State Prison first." Judge Bosson later revoked the order and fined McGlone $20, the defendant being ordered committed in default of $200 bonds for appeal. The McGlones were married in 1883. In 1899, Mrs. McGlone began an action for divorce. The husband did not oppose the suit and believed the decree had been granted. Seven years later they again met and agreed to bury their past differences. They came to Boston, and were married by a Justice of the Peace. In court to-day records were introduced to show the second ceremony had been performed, but that it was unnecessary, as the divorce action had not been carried out and no decree had ever been issued.

BLAMES MOTHER FOR CHILD NERVOUSNESS

Dr. W. N. Bullard, in a lecture at the Harvard Medical School, declared that nervousness in children was in large part due to their parents.

"If I could only treat the mother," I have so often exclaimed, "the child would get well. Nervousness is not a disease, it is a symptom. On the influence of the persons surrounding it depends the nervous life of a child," said Dr. Bullard.

"There are some women in whom there is no cause for nervousness. In them it is a defect and often a sin. Nervousness in women is unattractive and generally denotes a lack of control.

HAWK KIDNAPS A KITTEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Central Park is being raked with a fine tooth comb today for "Nig," the black kitten mascot of the New Theatre who was carried off by a hawk from the theatre's roof garden. "Nig" has a thinking part in "The Witch," which has its premiere to-night with Mrs. Bertha Galland in the leading role. "Nig's" part was to curl up by the property fire in the dining-room scene. There not a press rehearsal on the theatre roof yesterday. At lunch "Nig" was having sparrows around the roof when a hawk swooped down on him and then soared back to Central Park with "Nig," having his first airship ride. The hawk seemed to like the feel of the kitten, for after cut up such a dandy fight that the hawk flew off with "Nig" also into a rabbit hole.

RABBITS CAME BACK STRONG.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—The following story about the late William P. Frith, who painted "Derby Day" and other notable pictures, is going the rounds of the Art Club. Mr. Frith bought a dozen white rabbits which he had sent home. The messenger left them loose in Mr. Frith's garden, and the rabbits straightway ran. In diligent search the next day Frith rounded up eleven rabbits in the neighborhood and told the dealer, while reproaching him for the messenger's carelessness, "Not old frat rate, Mr. Frith," said the dealer, "to get back eleven rabbits, for I only sent de out to your place. The rest were to go out to day."

THIS HEN DYES HER EGGS.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 14.—A white Rhode Island Red hen, a member of unquestioned character, is laying eggs with red yolks and white albumen. This is said by the Cornell students to be a tribute to their college. Others claim they are colorine eggs, that the real reason is that professors in the Cornell College of Agriculture have been feeding the hen a harmless dye. The hen's plumage turned to a delicate pink. Her eggs began to change color. "Eggsperiment" is considered a chromatic success.

SIX MICE WORTH $10,000.

Six tiny, shivering little dormice, listed at $10,000 and just arrived at this port from Europe, are now en route to the exclusive fraternity laboratory of some college professor, to whom they are consigned. They were shipped here on the Anglian from London. Much sympathy was felt for the luckless dormice by the officers of the Anglian as the dismal prospect ahead destined to yield up their lives in the cold cause of science.

DIAMOND FOUND IN A FOX.

MONTVILLE, N. J., Feb. 14.—Two weeks ago a daughter of Edward McGowan poultry breeder, lost a $500 uncut diamond. Yesterday McGowan trapped a red fox in his poultry yard. In the fox's stomach he found the missing gem. Infallible deduction shows that the diamond was lost by Miss McGowan in the poultry yard, was swallowed by a fowl, which was eaten by the fox, which was trapped.

CREW FOUGHT BIG GORILLA.

A mixed crew of Lascars and Malays aboard the Hausa line steamer Lindenfels, now at Mystic Wharf, is still shivering with recollections of the huge gorilla which escaped from its cage on the voyage from Calcutta. After terrorizing the crew the gorilla was cornered in the rigging by a seaman, who was obliged to stab the brute to death.

OVERDUE SCHOONER TEEL IS SIGHTED

First news of the long overdue four-masted Boston schooner J. H. Teel, Captain H. Hansen, was brought to port to-day by the United Fruit Company's steamer Limon, from Port Limon, Costa Rica. The Limon sighted the Teel to the north of Cape Hatteras, away off her course, but evidently all right. The Teel sailed from Salem for Baltimore January 27, and had not been spoken thereafter. When sighted Saturday a furious gale was blowing, but the Teel was standing along in a northerly course under reefed main and mizzen with fore staysails and jib set, and showed no signals of distress. The point where the Teel was sighted is, of course, far south of Chesapeake Bay, which was the schooner's destination. She is 756 tons, 177.6 feet long and is owned by Samuel R. Crowell.

TAFT'S MESSAGE TO AID ARMY AND NAVY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The President will soon send to Congress two special messages relative to the needs of the military establishment—one on the army and the other on the navy. He will point out the necessity of providing a method by which the merits of officers of both branches of the service shall have some effect on their advancement and by which the advancement of all may be accelerated by the effective elimination of a definite proportion of the least efficient. In military parlance, this obstacle to promotion is called the "hump," and the President wants Congress to remove it.

BOSTON OUT $2,687,000.

Boston's city treasury would be $2,687,198 richer if persons who have been assessed, but who have refused to pay poll taxes during the past ten years, would come forward and settle. City Collector Brown reports that during that period 1,905,341 persons have been assessed and that only 636,844 have paid the annual assessment of $2. Last year there were 189,628 assessments and but 40,880 persons paid.

FALLING OFF IN TRANSFERS IN PAST WEEK

Statistics of last week's realty market in Suffolk County show a falling off in the total number of transfers filed but the decrease was not very large. The record of mortgages exceeded those filed during the corresponding week of last year and also 1908, but the value of the same was slightly below the total of a year ago. This increase in the number of transfers, however, does not indicate less activity in the market for the character of the sales was much better than those during the same period of last year.

The following table, compiled by the Real Estate Exchange, show the entries of record at the Suffolk Registry of Deeds for the week ending February 12:

	1910.	1909.	1908.
No of transfers	329	328	316
No. of mortgages	194	179	132
Amt. of sales	$713,316	$1,621,667	$527,482

The appended table, also compiled by the Real Estate Exchange, gives in detail each day's transactions for the week beginning February 7 and ending Feb. 12:

Date.	Sales.	Mtgs.	Amt. mtgs.
Feb. 7	42	27	$91,010
" 8	57	28	121,942
" 9	57	38	104,967
" 10	66	36	87,875
" 11	56	32	165,962
" 12	51	33	172,400
Total	329	194	$713,316

Among the sales reported to-day was that of the three-story brick building at 1,103 square feet of land, all assessed for $13,500, at Nos. 43-45 Bedford street, near Tremont street, in the city proper, which have been purchased by the Boston Real Estate Trust Co. from Charles Courtenay Cabot. This property is located near the rear of the union's extensive Boylston street, Park land is rated for $11,000.

In the North End the interest in the property at Nos. 6 Hanover court, which fronts Fleet and Prince street, held by Calogero Oliveri, has been sold to Anthony Lenhart. This estate comprises a four-story brick house and 807 square feet of land, all taxed for $8,300, on which $2,800 is on the land.

Catherine S. Landers has sold to John M. Lentz the estate at No. 48 Hanover street, near Austin place, Roxbury, consisting of a three-story house on 2,700 square feet of land, all assessed for $7,500, of which $2,000 is on the land.

In the same district Henry S. Harris has sold to Mary A. Jackson a three-story brick house and 624 square feet of land on Warwick street, near Hammond street, all taxed for $5,700, of which $2,000 is on the land.

The three-story, shell-front brick house and 1,392 square feet of land at No. 7 Highland Park avenue, near Park avenue, Roxbury, have been sold by Henry Lawrence Hart to Marie E. Hughes, from whom they were purchased as a habitation of $3,000, of which $900 is on the land.

In Brighton, Jesse Kibbe has sold to Charles F. Mahan a lot of 4,000 square feet of land, taxed for $1,000, on Commonwealth terrace, near Allston street.

Another lot of land in Brighton, containing about 4,100 square feet and taxed for ten cents a foot, on the Upland road, between Dunboy and Brooks streets, has been sold by Albert J. Bumpus to Mary E. Barrett.

Hartley Lord of Kennebunk, Me., has sold to Hilda M. Lord of Boston the estate at No. 1 Hillside street, near Hillcrest road, Roxbury, containing 12,545 square feet. The purchaser will build for a home in the Spring.

In Fred Weldon of Boston has sold to Elizabeth A. Fraser of Boston the six-room house with all improvements, numbered 7 Fremont street, Reading, and about 7,200 square feet of land. The purchaser will occupy. Arthur W. Temple was the broker in both these transactions.

LEATHER MAN IN COURT.

LYNN, Feb. 14.—John F. Denney, a well-known leather remnant dealer, was sentenced to twenty days in the House of Correction by Judge Lummus in the police court to-day. He appealed. Mrs. Annie Denney, his wife, testified that her husband came home in the first at 3:1 Essex street late Saturday night, quarrelled with her and knocked her down.

AS FAVOR TO WIFE, BANKER SEEKS DIVORCE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Robert P. Perkins, wife of the Boston banker, has been served with papers in her husband's divorce suit. She says he is suing in the Massachusetts courts as a favor to her, because her divorce, obtained last October in South Dakota, is not recognized in the Bay State.

"Now to please me," said Mrs. Perkins, "my husband is securing a divorce there."

The Massachusetts divorce, it is said, will pave the way for her marriage to Brinton Rumsey, the rich cattle baron of Cody, Wyo.

"It's true, I know Mr. Rumsey," said Mrs. Perkins, "and I'm not surprised that our marriage is rumored. All I can say is we are not married yet, and I do not care to talk about the matter."

Mrs. Perkins is living in a cottage at the foot of Cheyenne Mountain until the divorce court of Massachusetts releases her from the bonds of matrimony.

Mrs. Perkins was Miss Anna R. Bowditch, the daughter of the late E. Francis Bowditch of Boston and Framingham. Mrs. Bowditch belonged to the Perry family of New York.

Mr. Perkins is a member of Somerset, Norfolk Hunt, Tennis and Racquet and Exchange clubs. His father left him $2,500,000. He married Miss Bowditch June 12, 1901, at Framingham.

The eldest of their four children attended the Fay School at Southboro, and was visited frequently by his mother. At the school was a young instructor named Rumsey, and Mrs. Perkins was frequently seen in his company riding or autoing. Young Rumsey used to visit at Owls Nest, the Perkins home, and it is said that the trouble in Mr. Perkins' home arose out of those visits. Mr. Perkins remonstrated, and is said to have been sustained in his position by his wife's family. A separation followed shortly afterward.

FUNERAL OF BALL PLAYER.

George A. Mills, who died Saturday at the home of his parents, Lawrence and Mary H. Mills, No. 16 Winson street, Dorchester, was well known as a ball player in 1906-1907 he was captain and pitcher of the Walla Walla, Wash., team. He was an all-round amateur athlete, being exceptionally classy as a sprinter and broad jumper. Funeral services will be held in Grace Church, Meeting House Hill, at 9:30 a.m. to-morrow.

Enormous Gains Due to Enormous Results

ARCHBISHOP REBUKES RICH CLERGYMEN

A stern warning to the priests of the Boston archdiocese against the acquisition of money outside their salaries, was implied in a sermon preached at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross by Archbishop O'Connell.

In concluding his sermon, after referring to cases of recent occurrence, in which priests have left large estates, the Archbishop said: "Let us pray God that they may never happen again. If they should you will remember that now and here I have fulfilled my sacred duty in this matter, and may God help those who at any time in the future may be guilty of such offence."

The Archbishop did not name the deceased priests of whom he spoke, referring to them merely by the phrase "one or two."

"The priests of this diocese," he said, "are, as you know, men worthy of all praise. I know their work and you do too. I know as you do, that their only desire is to do the work of God among His faithful people, and fear of all to be the cause of scandal. Nevertheless, occasionally, but rarely, scandal has been caused by priest's wills, in which figure large sums of money.

Feared Approbation of Silence.

"I have thought and meditated seriously before speaking as I do now. Only one consideration could drive me to it, namely, the fear that my silence would be construed as a sign of approbation of a thing which I deplore, and secondly, the hope that this public announcement of my position may avert all danger of scandal in the future.

"I have spoken frequently to the clergy of this matter of wills and bequests. They all know well my mind and that of my saintly predecessor with regard to the obligation of a priest in these things.

"It certainly is a curious coincidence that in two or three such cases which gave rise to scandalous gossip, the priest died suddenly and without the sacraments. I wish to judge no one's motives. Perhaps they acted in a manner they thought was permissible.

Outside Interests Forbidden.

"But whatever was their mind in the matter, the simple fact is that a priest's will, in which he leaves large sums of money, no matter to what purpose, is a source of grave scandal unless this money has been inherited.

"Any large sum of money, therefore, accumulated by a priest, must have come from industries and other fields which are not permissible by the church for a priest to engage in—for priests are forbidden to engage in any business; and, therefore, no matter what source this money comes from, unless from inheritance, there is inevitably an occasion for grave scandal. There has been enough, and more than enough of such things."

GLOVER FAMLY FEUD WILL BE ARED DURING CONTES OVER WILL

Divided Glover family in fight over will of victim of Waltham tragedy.

What does Seymour S. Glover know about the murder of his brother, Clarence F. Glover, in his Waltham laundry on the night of December 20 last?

What information has he withheld that has divided the Glover family into two hostile camps and really brought about the contest of the Glover will which is resumed in the East Cambridge Probate Court next Wednesday afternoon?

Arthur P. Glover, one of the contesting brothers, on the witness stand swore that he felt bitterly against Seymour because he would not help to clear their dead brother's name.

"He has refused," testified the brother, "to help us run down the guilty party in connection with Clarence's murder."

"Do you mean THE guilty party or A guilty party?" Arthur was asked.

"I mean THE guilty party," was his instant response.

"Did Seymour believe the same as you did regarding THE guilty party?" he was asked.

"He did at first," was the reply.

Seymour To Take Stand.

Seymour S. Glover is to take the witness stand later in the case, and then he will be allowed to tell his story of what he believed and what he believes now, if he has changed his mind.

In the meantime one of the strangest features of the Waltham tragedy and the tearing of the veil of secrecy from a home life that has been described as a "living hell," has been the break in the Glover family.

On the one side is Mrs. Lillian Marie Glover, widow of the murdered man; Seymour S. Glover, brother of the dead man, and Mrs. Seymour S. Glover. The widow and the brother are the beneficiaries of the Glover will, which left property estimated at about $35,000.

On the other side are Arthur P. Glover, Norman S. Glover, Albert R. Glover and William Glover. These brothers, who are contesting the will, do not seem to care so much about the division of the property as they do about the mystery that surrounds their brother's death.

Wants Mystery Cleared.

"I do not know what I would get if the will were broken," testified Arthur. "I have more than a thought when I say I want is justice done to my dead brother. I want THE GUILTY PERSON BROUGHT TO JUSTICE."

And thus is this family feud carried into court and a will contest turned into a murder inquiry.

Following Norman S. Glover, who resumes the witness stand on Wednesday afternoon, it is expected that Mrs. Arthur P. Glover will be called. She was in company with her husband at one time when Clarence F. Glover told about his home life. She is expected to tell about that and other phases of the Glover home life.

Thomas Coffey is to be one of the important witnesses. He will testify about the revolver with which Glover was shot if his testimony is admitted.

LORD FAIRFAX BACK; GOOD AMERICAN STILL

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Lord Fairfax, of the Virginia Fairfaxes, known as "the American lord," was among the passengers on the Cunarder Campania. With him came J. H. Parker and Montague Parker, sons of the Earl of Morley. They are the guests of Lord Fairfax, and after a week here will go to Virginia.

Lord Fairfax replied with a smile to the two stock questions as to whether he was still an American and whether he was engaged to marry.

"I am still a good American," he said, "and I have no romantic affairs."

WOMAN, 72, LOST IN STORM, MAY BE DEAD

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Feb. 14.—When the roads were broken out to-day word was brought here that Mrs. Rachel Cushman, seventy-two, became lost in the woods Friday night and probably perished in the snowstorm. She walked into Prescott's lumber camp, not far from her home, and left some supplies. Leaving the camp at 7 p. m., she evidently became bewildered and lost her way. The severe snowstorm that night covered all traces of her wanderings.

BIRTHDAY GIRL "GOLDBRICKS" HOTEL LENOX

The Hotel Lenox has a brand new record. It has served a birthday feast to a party for ten people to which nobody came, not even the hostess.

By the same token, the management of the Lenox would much like to see "Miss Margaret Smith of Augusta, Me."

The management has Miss Smith's trunk. But there's nothing in it. The management has been entertaining Miss Smith lavishly for a week and there's nothing in it for the hotel either, except an unpaid bill of $150.

The only real gainers by the affair are sundry employes of the Lenox, who were given the useless birthday cake, candies and all. The cake, for lack of other eaters, was sliced up and distributed among the waiters, bellhops, chambermaids and porters.

Hotel Men Philosophers.

The hotel management is taking the matter philosophically, saying:

"Well, these little things must happen every now and then. Check up $150 to the account of profit and loss. And watch out for Miss Smith."

It was a bright, fair morning about ten days ago when a pretty blonde was driven to the Lenox in a taxi. She engaged a good room, for which her trunk was sent. The trunk seemed from its weight to be reasonably full. Miss Smith of Augusta, Me., as she registered, wore a fur coat and tailored suit, was neatly booted, hatted and gloved. So many people stay at the Lenox for the opera now that Miss Smith's arrival unaccompanied excited no comment.

One of the Old Smith Family.

Miss Smith, coming as she did from one of our best known and oldest families, received many social attentions.

When she had been there a week her bill was made out for presentation, as usual in first-class hotels. But before it was sent to her room Miss Smith asked the clerk for it.

"We will send it to your room," said the clerk, and Miss Smith bowed acquiescence with that quiet cordiality which marks the well bred woman.

That afternoon Miss Smith approached the clerk again and desired to make arrangements to give a party for ten people.

"It is my birthday," she explained with a smile, "and I am twenty one years old. And I wish a cake with twenty-one candles on it, among other things."

Birthday Cake a Wonder.

The party was to be for the night of the following day. That night the birthday dinner was set in one of the dining rooms, and the birthday cake was all ready, a marvel of the chef's skill.

Seven—eight nine-ten o'clock came and passed, but no Miss Smith and no guests. Finally, shrewder than Miss Smith has now been in her room the night before at all. Further investigation revealed the empty trunk. Final calculation showed that Miss Smith owed the Lenox about $150.

Social Notes

On next Monday night the students of Boston College will produce "Julius Cæsar" in the college hall on James street. Professor Joseph H. White is staging the play and the following have the principal parts: Timothy A. Sheehan, '11, as Mark Antony; Charles James A. Convery, '10, of Roslindale, as Brutus; William E. Conroy, '10, of Hyde Park, as Cassius, and Lloyd B. Waters, '11, of Newton, Treasurer.

In the vestry of the Temple Israel, Commonwealth avenue, tonight, a musical and dance will be held by the Junior Guild of the Temple. The committee in charge of the affair includes Miss Jessie Goldsmith (chairman), Miss Flora Fried, Miss Ethel S. Rena White, Arthur Mandelstam, Sidney Stein, Arthur Andrews and Harold Burstein. The ushers will be Mark Adams, Arthur Sondheim and Ralph Harris.

Tickets for the Boston Workhorse Parade Association, which took hold strongly on exhibit Friday evening at Klugsley Hall, No. 160 Boylston street, will be given drivers, grooms and owners of horses. These may be had at Room 27, No. 15 Beacon street, where entry banks for the Memorial Day parade may also be obtained.

To-morrow evening the Quincy Society is to present Handel's "Messiah," in Music Hall, Quincy. Arthur S. Wenman will be the director. There will be a chorus of 100 voices. The president of the club is Thomas B. Pollard, and George S. Rider is vice president. Among those prominent in the cast are Dr. Daniel B. Reardon and Mrs. Edith Cary Page.

Edward A. Filene spoke on the "1915" movement yesterday afternoon in Brunswick Hall, Roxbury, at a lecture held under the auspices of Adath Jeshurun Culture Circle. M. J. Sawyer presided. The other speakers were Rabbi Isenell and Nathan Pinanski.

The second mass meeting of the archdiocesan Federation of Catholics Societies will be held in St. Alphonsus Hall, Smith street, Roxbury, next Sunday afternoon. Archbishop O'Connell will be the principal speaker.

A whist party for the benefit of the Free Home for Consumptives was held this afternoon at Society Hall, No. 168 Massachusetts avenue.

The Ringville Club of Neponset will hold its annual dance to-night in Kelleher Hall, Neponset.

JAILED IN BANKRUPT CASE.

Slineon W. Jacobs, a former Worcester jeweller, was to-day sentenced to six months in the Greenfield jail and fined $500 by Judge Dodge in the Federal court on the charge of concealing assets in bankruptcy. Jacobs pleaded guilty to the charge last week after learning that his divorced wife, who testified against him at his trial, had been located by the government authorities.

MISS JORDAN TO APPEAR ON STAGE AT NEW THEATRE

Miss Dorothy Jordan.

Boston's popular society girl and amateur actress, Miss Dorothy Jordan, only daughter of Eben D. Jordan, has been chosen as one of the small and distinguished set of amateurs to present the first vaudeville bill ever offered at the New Theatre in New York.

Built as the home of legitimate drama, the New Theatre makes the departure only in the interest of the highest class vaudeville performances. Miss Jordan, who is known as a remarkable all-round entertainer, will give one of her dancing specialties, which have been the life of the Vincent Club shows in this city for the past three years.

Boston society men and women and many of the Vincent Club girls and escorts are planning to attend the performance in New York which takes place on Friday night. New York will be represented by its most exclusive set, for the actresses and actors are all members of the group known as the "400."

This latest honor to Miss Jordan comes as no surprise to those who have seen her in amateur performances in the old Tremont Row ballet dance, given at the Vincent Club vaudeville show in 1907, was one of the hits of the season and brought her praise from the most accomplished critics. Her work even at that time compared favorably with that of the most noted professionals. It was on the fine work she showed in Mrs. Gardner than of the hardest class which is now prominent in the professional field.

After her success Boston Miss Jordan was selected as the headliner of the spirit vaudeville show given by New York society people for charity at Carnegie Hall. There was tremendous and brought her more and more into favor there.

CONDUCTOR'S BODY UNDER OWN TRAIN

William G. Irving, aged twenty-eight, married, living at No. 164 Putnam avenue, Cambridge, a freight conductor employed by the B. & A. R. R., was found dead, his body frightfully mangled in the yards at Brighton. It is supposed that he was killed by the engine of a train coming from Chicago.

Just before the mail train passed through the yards Irving was seen uncoupling to his engine. As there was no other train passing through the yard at the time it is generally figured that it was the mail train that killed the conductor, as his own train was not moving. Irving had been employed by the railroad about five years and was only recently promoted to the position of conductor.

MEMORIAL MASS FOR BENEFACTORS OF POOR

A memorial mass for the souls of the deceased benefactors of the Home for Incurable Catholics, on Harrison avenue, will be offered next Friday morning. The mass will be said in the chapel of the Sisters of Charity, who have charge of the home. The living benefactors are invited by the sisters to attend the service, which will begin at 7 o'clock.

Society Opens Second Week of Lent With Long List of Smart Events

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Although the week-end took many into the country for house parties and still others to the South and elsewhere for longer visits, the week opens auspiciously enough to suit most of the fashionables who are remaining in town, especially when it is remembered that the period of quiet and self-denial soon enters the second week. For in addition to the opera this evening, the social program contains a smart musicale and talk on a musicale coarsely, a French reading, and a combined recognition, tea and lecture, and there seems to be little danger that the social hum will lag to any noticeable extent.

* * *

Mrs. Harry Elkins Converse opens her house on Beacon street this evening for a select musicale, for which she has issued a limited number of invitations. The special feature of the affair will be a talk on "Elektra" given by Henry L. Gibson. The music will be illustrated by selections played on two pianos.

* * *

Mrs. Bayard Thayer has a representative group of fashionable before and noticed at her residence on Arlington street to-day for another in the series of French readings which Mlle. Jeanne Roulet has been giving. The first number of the series was given at the home of Mrs. Arthur Tracy Cabot on Marlboro street. When Mrs. Cabot made plans to be absent from town for a number of weeks Mrs. Thayer graciously opened her house for the remainder of the course. Mlle. Roulet's readings are greatly enjoyed by the smart set, and many attended when she entertained at the home of Mrs. Alexander Cochrane recently.

* * *

Mrs. William Sumner Crosby of No. 173 Gardner road, Brookline, gives a reception and tea to-day at her home in honor of Mrs. Walter M. Jackson of London, who is visiting in Boston. Mrs. Jackson will speak informally on the women's suffrage movement as she has seen it in England and in New York during her recent residence there, and will speak especially on the Methods of the English Woman as Contrasted with Those of the New York Women." Miss Emily Sheppard, daughter of Mrs. Otis Sheppard of Brookline, has charge of the tea tables, with a corps of assistants to help pour. An informal discussion follows Mrs. Jackson's lecture.

* * *

Mrs. J. Arthur Beebe, Mrs. John T. Burnham, Mrs. Fred R. Thayer, Mrs. H. H. Gay, Mrs. Alexander Porter, Jr., Mrs. George H. Lyman, Mrs. Paul Revere Frothingham, Mrs. Robert M. Morse, Mrs. Eliot Hubbard, Mrs. William McKee, Mrs. Daniel Merriman, Mrs. Henry P. Quincy, Mrs. George H. Nichols, Mrs. Eugene S. Foss, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Mrs. Horatio N. Slater, Mrs. Alexander Steinert, Mrs. Samuel J. Major, Miss William Lindsay, Mrs. J. Livingston Grandin, Mr. and Mrs. Converse and Mrs. George H. Perkins are the patronesses for the recital which is to be given at the studios on Commonwealth avenue on the morning of Wednesday, February 23, at 11 o'clock. The recital will be in charge of Mrs. Elsie Waldstein, assisted by Mrs. Frances Dunton Wood, the soprano. The committee on arrangements includes Mrs. Frederick Ludwig, Mrs. Elsie Washburn, Mrs. Stanley Phillip Clemens and Mrs. William G. Adams.

* * *

Mrs. John H. Morison of Brimmer street has decided to go to Bermuda for several weeks during April. She will be accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Greene of Marlboro street, the fiance of her son, Samuel Eliot Morison.

* * *

Mrs. Lora Anderson's stories from the "Legend of Sea Horse" are to be told this afternoon at stories for children which is to be given in the near future. The proceeds are being arranged by Mrs. Lorenzo Manson Woodside. Mrs. Woodside is a very clever entertainer, and is especially successful in her programs of stories for children.

* * *

Mrs. Edwin Carr Swift of Swiftmount, Pride's crossing, is on her way to England. She sailed on the steamer Adriatic.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lawrie of Commonwealth avenue, are making a short visit in New York. They are stopping at the Hotel Waldorf.

* * *

Skating parties are among the latest diversions of the fashionables at Washington, and when there is no ice, roller skating is resorted to. The committee in charge of the parties is made up of Countess Moltke (Cornelia Thayer), wife of the Danish Minister; Mrs. John Story, Viscountess Benoist d'Azy, wife of the naval attaché of the French Embassy; and the Countess Lutzo von Wersdorff, daughter of the German Ambassador. Miss Alice Meyer and Miss Julia Meyer, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George von L. Meyer, who made their home in Boston prior to going to Washington, are among the most enthusiastic skaters, having as a close second the Secretary of the Navy himself. The Meyer sisters are very clever at fancy skating, having learned the art from the younger members of the foreign embassies at the Capital.

* * *

Mrs. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., Mrs. Augustus Hemenway, Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell, Mrs. Roger Merriam, Mrs. Hallam Moseley, Mrs. George H. Bell, Mrs. George Whitney, Mrs. Samuel Huntington Wolcott, Mrs. John E. Thayer and Mrs. Phillip L. Stillenstall are some of the patronesses for the annual dance which the Hasty Pudding Club of Cambridge is planning to give at the clubhouse on Friday evening, February 25.

* * *

Mrs. Franklin Mott Wagner, who has been giving a series of receptions at her home in New York in honor of her new sister-in-law, Mrs. Taber Sears of Boston, entertains again to-day.

* * *

One of the small select dances to which everyone seems to be looking forward is that which Mrs. Robert S. Bradley is to give at her residence on Commonwealth avenue for her daughter, Miss Leslie Bradley. This will be the second dance of the season which Mrs. Bradley has given for her daughter, and this one, like the earlier affair, will be a small house affair. It is to take place on Friday evening, March 4.

* * *

Francis M. Ware, Henry P. Eldredge and Prescott Lawrence are members of the committee which has been appointed to have charge of the fourteenth exhibition of the Newport Horse Show Association at the new Casino. The event, which is a most important society affair during the season at Newport, is always arranged for very early, the date of the next one is September 3.

* * *

Mrs. George Morris to-day gives another in the interesting series of dramatic readings with which she has been entertaining large audiences of Brookline and Boston women during the latter part of the winter. This is her second series of readings this season, as her course last Winter became so popular that there has been demand for two such sets of readings from modern plays this Winter.

* * *

A recently announced engagement of interest is that of Miss Harriet Porter E. Manning of East Orange, N. J., to the Rev. Arthur Lyman Kinsolving of Boston. Mr. Manning is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Manning, formerly of Jamaica Plain.

JIM JEFFRIES' GREATEST RING BATTLES---NO 3

SHARKEY AND JEFFRIES FIGHT LIKE MANIACS IN THEIR FIRST BOUT

Along in the early part of the year of grace eighteen hundred and ninety-six, there drifted through the Golden Gate a young gentlemen who had but until recently been a buc'k's mate in the navy of the Republic. He was something less than three feet in the beam, with short, gnarled arms, and had fists hung on the ends of them that resembled the disquiting end of a Zulu war club. Above the chest was a head as hard and muscled and menacing as the battleship on which he had served.

This was Tom Sharkey, the champion of the Pacific station. He had been fighting in Honolulu as long as there was anybody to fight or anything to fight for, and had put it all over the Kanakas, financially and artistically. He was now hunting for the fatter purses of The Golden West, for given in three days he showed something of the badness instinct and frugality for which he was in later years so celebrated.

He started in industriously by tearing a few second-raters to pieces, and then fought a draw with Abe Attell. Then he knocked Joe Choynski silly in eight rounds and looked around for some one else. He fought a four-round draw with Jim Corbett, and Corbett indignantly proclaimed that the sailor had used everything on him but a repeating shotgun. Then he won on a foul from Peter Maher mons.

Billy Delaney looked him over and decided that he would do for Jeffries. The four-round fight with Champion Corbett and the fact that he had stayed eight rounds with Fitz gave him a financial value not to be despised. Besides, Delaney had watched the sailor's fights and he believed that the fearful wallops of his young Los Angeles client would stop the apparently irresistible rushes of the navy champion.

Jeff Fast Getting a Rep.

Jeff had now reached a point in his career where he was reckoned with as a factor in the busy heavyweight situation. He was growing visibly stronger and more surely knit with every fight.

To any one in need of a hard-fought battle, Sharkey could be safely recommended. He could be depended on to hold up his end in any little affair you might start. His methods were somewhat crude, but effective. He had never learned that it isn't considered good form to ram your opponent with your head or squeak in his face with your elbow, but those weaknesses could be overlooked.

The men who belonged to the Bunnell school of argument were about equally divided. There were either more Jeffries men or their had more money, for when the betting settled to an even business-like pace odds were steadily 10 to 8 on the big native son. Thousands of dollars and thousands of dollars were bet at these odds.

There was some comfort in this for Sullivan to see the battle. All of the big guns of the fight world called him one of the big ones of the political and social world of Frisco around election time, and Delaney was bossing Jeff's career, and Tim McGrath and Spider Kelley had charge of the sailor.

Jeff Much the Bigger Man.

When the two men stepped out to face each other it didn't look fair. The enormous bulk of the Californian towered half a foot above the sailor's head, and when he crouched and rose and he loomed like Sharkey couldn't reach him with his feet, much less his fists.

Jeff advanced leisurely and Sharkey stepped back as naturally as you would get out of the way of a bear. He feinted a couple of times and then stepped in and launched a left swing. It was short by a trifle of two feet. He grabbed Jeff, and neither tried to land as they stepped back. Sharkey quartered around a bit and then tried with the right. This time he got pretty enough, but not high enough.

Where he went wrong in the second round rang Sharkey bounced out of his corner like a ball and threw himself at Jeffries with all his weight in a right swing, clinching a wicked left as he came in. His swing was blocked, but the force of the rush sweet Jeff back a few inches.

The sailor charged at him again, once more ducking the left, and this time he reached Jeff's ribs with a resounding right to the solar plexus landed again and woke Jeff up. The big fellow rushed him to the ropes, hanging on each time he landed, when Sharkey bashed at him again and forced Jeff's head with a right swing on the ropes. The sailor was all over the ring in the second.

Jeff began pressing him harder when the third opened, but Sharkey constantly gave ground and let him come on to clinch. He was struck. Then Sharkey darted in, swinging both hands, and Jeff was hit twice on the head. As they came together the Californian shook his head with a short fling of knockouts to his credit.

right to the heart, and just before the bell landed his first effective punch with the left—a wicked hook to the wind.

In the fourth there was little of importance, excepting a left swing of Sharkey's that looked strong enough to break a safe, and set Jeff's right ear a little closer to his head; but in the fifth there was more excitement and the Jeffries men began to kick up a racket. Sharkey tried ineffectually to land the battle for a few seconds, but was driven back with a left to the head and a nasty right to the ribs. Again the stately sailor form, this time to duck up right on his heels from a left to the mouth that started a rivulet of blood. A right to the head sent him back three paces as the bell came.

Sharkey Kept Boring In.

But Sharkey had only begun to empty his basket, and Jeff will probably never forget the rest of the fight. Again and again the bull-like sailor hurled himself against the big man's flats in headlong fury. Again and again Jeff met him, staggered and threw him back with crushing blows that would have killed any other man in the world. But as often as he was driven back he dashed upon the Californian again. It was big odds to stop all of his blows. A wild left swing pushed in the end of Jeff's nose, and he was bleeding slightly from the lips. Jeffries, for the first time in his life, seemed to be tiring fast.

The tenth opened with another mad rush and fearful swing that tanned full on Jeff's mouth. A right to the ear followed if and Jeff missed an uppercut. Again Sharkey charged, but this time he was met with a left over the eye that could be heard out in the street. It sent him reeling to the ropes.

The Californian followed and fiercely fought the sailor along the ropes, with Jeff getting the better of it. His weapons had magically disappeared and he looked the fresher of the two at the bell. Once again Sharkey began the round with two round swings to the head, but he took a right cross to the temple that made even the spectators wince. Even the all but invulnerable Sharkey couldn't take the wallop without damage.

He seemed to sag in all over and dropped slowly to his knees, clutching Jeff's leg as he fell. Then he rose and staggered away for a few seconds and then Sharkey jumped to his feet as if he hadn't been punched in a month and swung both hands to Jeff's jaw. The big man stepped in, and then left up to the chin before Sharkey got a return and the sailor looked dazed when the round closed.

That was the last round in which any one but Jeff stood out, but those who saw it will never forget. The rest of the fight was a delirious pantomime of huge writhing bodies, whirling arms and red-smeared faces that disappeared every now and then behind gloved hands and reddier than ever. Neither man stepped back.

And through all of it only one thing remained clear—that Jeffries was winning by a bigger margin with every round. There was no discovery when he was given the decision at the end of the twentieth.

Tad Pictures First Terrific Fight Between Jeffries and Sharkey

LANGFORD TO BOX KAUFMANN

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—Louis Blot, manager of the Metropolitan Club, has signed Sam Langford for a March engagement. While no articles have yet been secured for the Boston negro it is believed that Al Kaufman will be sent against him. Blot said this afternoon that he expected to open negotiations with Kaufman within the next day or two. In case Langford fights Kaufman the former seems like a cinch to mind either Jim Barry or Tony Ross.

THOMAS FIGHTS BROWN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Harry Thomas, who recently made a good fight against Pat Moore at the Olympic A. C., will appear in another six-round bout on Friday night, when he will go ten rounds with K. O. Brown. Thomas showed that he was a boy of class and gave Moore all he could attend to in their ten-round bout, and Brown is a tough little German with a great punch. One of these boys is going to get the decision.

In the matter of the 10s-game schedule each lithograph club having played 70 games claims to have behind him in his fight for the title of champion city and Pugh. The opposition is said to be, besides Dreyfuss, Herrmann and Hoyer of Boston; Stanley Robison of St. Louis from the first days on the fence is the dispute.

Billy Murray, deposed manager of the Philadelphia National League Club, is more anxious about the result of the meeting of the Board of Directors of the minor organization in the Waldorf to-day than he is about the schedule contract that will follow it. The National League's Board of Directors, consisting of John T. Brush of New York, Charles W. Murphy of Chicago, August Herrmann of Cincinnati, Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg and Charles H. Ebbetts of Brooklyn, will meet and thresh out the case of Murray, who has an ironclad contract for the next two seasons to manage the Philadelphia team at $7,500 a year. Murray and President Pogel of the Phillies have had several conferences, but could not agree on amicable settlement, the result being that William J. Bashed his iron-clad contract on the directors of the National Commission, who forced the matter before the National League's Board of Directors, H. Brush, Francis C. Richter and Morris Reach will fail to make Murray an award that pleases him, Billy is likely to pick up cases before the National Commission for the second time.

MAGNATES START THEIR SESSION LATE

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The directors of the National League straggled into New York to-day from various parts of the country, and as a consequence the annual meeting scheduled to begin in the Waldorf-Astoria at 11 o'clock this morning had to be deferred until afternoon.

Two of the earliest arrivals were Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati and Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg, who came in on the same train and hastened to the Waldorf at 11, where they were immediately joined by Secretary Heydler.

The session to-day was the beginning of a series of meetings and conferences, which, in the opinion of baseball experts, will prove the most important inter-season session held in many seasons.

The program of the National directors to-day, as received at press, called for consideration of five important matters—the proposal of George William Aberson of the Philadelphia club and the Philadelphia Ledger demand for $1,000 from the New York team for forfeiting a game at the Polo Grounds last Summer; Robison's letter to the the question of the league's attitude toward the proposed trip around the world; the schedule contract that will follow it. The National League's Board of Directors, consisting of John T. Brush of New York, Charles W. Murphy of Chicago, August Herrmann of Cincinnati, Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburg and Charles H. Ebbetts of Brooklyn, will meet and thresh out the case of Murray, who has an ironclad contract for the next two seasons to manage the Philadelphia team at $7,500 a year. Murray and President Pogel of the Phillies have had several conferences, but could not agree on amicable settlement, the result being that William J. Bashed his iron-clad contract on the directors of the National Commission, who forced the matter before the National League's Board of Directors, H. Brush, Francis C. Richter and Morris Reach will fail to make Murray an award that pleases him, Billy is likely to pick up cases before the National Commission for the second time.

BOWLERS OF PORTLAND MARCHING ON BOSTON

By ED COGSWELL.

All is in readiness for the coming of the crack Portland bowlers here to-night at the Boylston alleys. It was thought that the return inter-city meeting between Portland and Boston would take place the latter part of last week, but the event was postponed.

It is sure that the Forest City representatives will be the very best obtainable, and the local boys will have to look carefully in order to protect their laurels, as in the initial meet at Portland Boston was returned the victor.

So far as can be learned the Portland team will comprise Pine, McConville, Hooper, Merryweather, Delano and substitutes. With the team will come a large body of rooters.

The game will start at the Boylston alleys at 7 o'clock, and immediately after the contest the visitors will be the guests of honor at dinner. Local bowldom is aroused over the outcome of the match, while no matter how the affair terminates there is going to be a rousing good time.

Entries Close Thursday.

Entries for the open big pin tournament of the Boston City Association, which will be held on the new Boston alleys, Feb. 21, were supposed to close last Saturday night, but so many of the five-men teams have delayed entering that the tournament committee yesterday decided to extend the time until midnight of Thursday, Feb. 17.

Teams and individuals are nevertheless urged not to delay entries until the last minute, as there will undoubtedly arise troubles of its own arranging the schedule and the sooner the list of starters is known the more accurately will the line arrangements. Entry blanks may be secured from Harry B. Cowen, No. 204 Washington street.

All of which brings to mind that Fred Williams has figured out a couple of teams to play first and second in the five-men's matches. Of course, he has the Ebonite team that pretty well frightened the New Yorkers at the last National tournament. While his second team in name only, is made up of the old champions like Towel, Cox, Simson, Martin and himself.

Williams is so cocky over his teams that he declares he is going to pick the best for a trip to Detroit for very last of this month and first of March, while from there he will take in the Milwaukee tournament in April. This means that the Ebonites are out for a National reputation.

Of all things just look over what is happening up in the western part of the State. Manager Curtis of the Casino alleys in North Adams deposited $50 that Paul Poehler could beat Frank Cressens, this as a deposit for a match for $100 a side.

Afraid of Poehler.

Now comes at the counter. The Springdell followers of Cressens, it is reported, have come and stated that they are not looking for the Poehler game with their champion; hence there cannot be a match between the two.

But how funny it was only a little while ago that Springfield was the thing, so they said, in matching Cressens against Christopher Poehler for a match game. But the latter has since defeated Poehler in a match for twenty points, and Springfield says that Poehler is far too good for Cressens.

This is bear cats in doping out matches. Just now there is a big scramble in the National Duck and Candle-pin congress, is securing entries from Brockton to take part in the Brockton Fair Meet, to be held May 7.

The Barrister and Crescent teams will enter the events contests, and also star performers as Luckman, Clark, Burr, Dunn, Adams, Jones, Lewis, Ferris, Leonard, Potte, Gill and Shields, all of whom average over 104 in the Brockton City League, have been listed for the individual matches.

CHAMPION MEETS TOUGH ONE ON MAT

That the wrestling bouts at the Columbia Theatre are of the greatest interest is proved by the fact that hundreds are turned away on Wednesday evenings.

The contestants for the coming Wednesday night are Walter Willoughby, the champion middleweight, and Frank Gotch, popularly known as "the Fighting Irishman." The style will be catch-as-catch-can, best two out of three falls.

HARVARD AND YALE ON ICE.

This week will witness the wind-up of the college hockey season, the Harvard-Yale game in New York Saturday completing the inter-collegiate league series. Harvard is sure of second place in the league, whatever may be the result of the game, and inasmuch as Princeton has already nailed the championship there is only the natural interest of a struggle between Harvard and Yale attaching to the contest.

KRAMER WINS 6-DAY RACE.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 14.—Frank Kramer of the Kramer-Fenn team won the one-mile sprint to settle the tie between five teams for the lead in the ten-hour, six-day cycle race that was finished in the First Regiment Armory. Peter Lawrence of the Lawrence-Wyer team, finished the next length behind. The leaders scored 1,326 miles 7 laps in the six hours of riding.

RACE 100 YARDS FOR $1,000.

Postle of Australia, Donaldson of South Africa, and Holway of America, have agreed to run 100 yards on February 12, at Johannesburg, for $1,000 a corner, and two-thirds of the net profits of the meeting. The winner is to take the whole amount.

BOXING NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Willie Jones, of Brooklyn, and Frankie Neil have signed articles to go with ten fifteen rounds at the Eureka A. C., Baltimore, on February 24 or 25.

*

Sailor Burke is on the job again. The lad has recovered from his recent indisposition and is ready to fight. Any one at 138 pounds will suit Burke.

*

The Sailor is especially anxious to face Frank Klaus, Jim Driscoll, Sullivan or Stanley Ketchel. He says he is as good as any man of his weight in the world to-day, and is ready to prove it.

*

Burke announces that he is out for business this time, and all he needs is two weeks' notice to get in shape for any boy who wants to step down the line—first come, first served.

*

Jimmy Johnson has arranged a match between Jim Driscoll and Joe Wagner and hopes some club will come to the front and take the bout.

*

Jack Britton, a Chicago feather, is East looking for scraps. He wants the topknot of Harry Stone especially.

*

"Gunboat" Smith is being lauded to the skies day in and day out, despite the fact that he has never shown the Philadelphia fans what he can do, while, on the other hand, there are a dozen good boys right here who have made good, but fail to get the same amount of press recognition that the ex-navy man is getting, simply because he looks like a quick money maker. Jack Fitzgerald, not quite so spectacular, but anxious to take a crack at the "Gunboat," and he does not want a big end of money for his end. Many believe that "Gunboat's" championship aspirations will melt if "Fitz" connects. Nick Hayes has a dangerous man in his charge.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

SEVEN STAR RUNNERS IN 15-MILE RACE

Seven of the fastest long distance runners in the world will meet at Madison Square Garden, New York, to-night in a fifteen-mile professional race.

Those who will start are Fred Meadows, a Canadian, who recently established a new fifteen-mile world's record in Toronto; Paul Arcoos, a Canadian Indian, who has often travelled long distances in record time; Hans Holmes, the conqueror of St. Yves at fifteen miles and over a Marathon course; Lidman, a Swedish champion who finished only a few yards behind Meadows in the record-breaking run at Toronto; Percy Sellen, another Canadian, with many victories and records to his credit; Jim Crowley, the former Irish-American Athletic Club Marathon hero, and Charlie Muller, the former fifteen-mile champion of the Mohawk A. C.

Fred Meadows is confident that he will win the race and will hang up another new record. But to do so Meadows will have to finish in record pace.

Twenty-eight men will go to the post in the five-mile race which will precede the big event. Among them are Jimmy Lee of the Boston A. A. distance champion; Red Hawk, a fast Indian; Al Reiben, a three-time Marathon winner; Bob Hallen, Mike Spring, George Bender and Cy Ward.

This race is a handicap affair. Jimmy Lee will be placed on the honor mark and give all of his opponents liberal handicaps.

KLING MAY BRING SUIT FOR $40,000

CINCINNATI, Feb. 14.—Catcher Johnny Kling will bring suit for $40,000 against the members of the National commission unless they reinstate him so that he can play this year. He has consulted lawyers in Kansas City, Chicago and New York, and they have told him that he can sue for his salary for four years if the commission refuses him reinstatement in the league.

Kling may not have to resort to this method, as the commission will vote his way if Murphy gives up his antagonism to the short schedule. Murphy left last night for New York. Herrmann, Dreyfuss and Robinson this morning.

ELABORATE PRIZES FOR HOLIDAY RACE

Instead of giving silver cups to all the place winners in its annual ten-mile cross-country run on Washington's birthday, the Armory A. A. will seek to make the event a bit more attractive in various ways. All the prizes will be silver, except that for the fastest time. That will be a gold watch. The first man in will get a coffee set, second man a loving cup, third candlesticks, fourth baking dish, fifth fruit dish, sixth waiter pitcher, seventh bread tray, and the eighth, ninth and tenth men cups.

JEFFRIES COCKSURE HE COULD LICK JOHNSON NOW

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 14.—"Hurt me! How could it have hurt me? Why I could go into the ring to-night and feel cocksure of beating that fellow." This retort of James J. Jeffries, who has just ended his tour, was drawn from him by the intimation that his tour of one night stands probably had not helped him any, was tinctured with the only bit of gruffness and grizzly bearishness that the retired champion displayed in talking of himself and the coming fight for the world's heavyweight title to-day.

"I will start for the West to-day. I want to get to work. I have got about four and a half months to prepare myself and I am not going to cheat myself or the public in this matter. I am going to get in the best condition of my life.

"I don't know where I will train. My ranch in Southern California and Santa Cruz both have been suggested as training places, but I may select neither of them.

"I am going on a little hunting and fishing trip before I do any real training. My wind is much better than some people imagine, but I figure this curtain raiser to my actual training will put me in fine shape."

Questioned about the length of time he thought it would take him to beat Johnson, Jeffries replied:

"I don't care to say anything about that. I have been misquoted in nearly every paper from coast to coast, and I guess it's up to me to keep still."

The amount of the gross receipts is not known yet, as no accounting has been made, but it is estimated by Lou Houseman, who has charge of the financial affairs of the company, including Jeffries, Gotch and others, that it will go over $200,000.

CY TO PITCH ONCE A WEEK

CLEVELAND, Feb. 14.—Denton J. Young, dean of the major league pitchers, isn't going to be worked to death by Manager Jim McGuire of the Naps next season. The Deacon has decided that Cy will win more games for the Naps if he goes on the rubber only once a week. When Manager of the Boston Red Sox, in 1908, McGuire found that the Grand Old Man of the slab could do better work after four days' rest. During the short time Jim piloted the Clevelands last Fall he decided that Young ougth to have a six-day vacation between games.

"I do not mean to say that Cy is retrograding as fast as my plan to work him only once a week would lead one to believe," said McGuire, "but I think I will get far better results if I pursue this course. There will be no saving Young for this or that club. He will pitch once a week, and it will make no difference which club opposes the Naps when it falls his turn to work."

Old Cy is in ignorance of McGuire's plan to pitch him only once a week, but the chances are it will meet with his approval, as he knows it will help lengthen his baseball life.

IS QUILL IN OLD-TIME FORM

Just where Tommy Quill, the shoemaker boxer from Brockton, gets off as a candidate for the top of the welterweight division will be posted to-morrow night when he engages with Young Loughrey, that live Quaker who has fought him three times already in the same ring and he found him about the toughest game that races as a trial horse for future champions.

Quill has been out of the ring for a long period, but the Brockton citizens believe that he can fight just as much like a demon as he ever did and are coming strong for him to put one over on the Quaker. Loughrey is going better than at any time in his career, as he showed here recently, and Quill will need all his guns to expect to score over his opponent.

Eddie Kelley, who appears in a preliminary, is really a main bout performer, as the Buffalo newsboy has travelled from one end of the country to the other, appearing in every ring. He faces Bobby Tickle, who will keep him busy. Two knockout artists, Peck LeFavor and Kid Wright, hook up also to display their wallops.

The circulation of the AMERICAN is 200,000 more than its next highest competitor and 75,000 more than all the other evening papers of Boston combined.

STRAIGHT DOPE FOR SPORT FANS

IF I FELT AS SCRAPPY AS THIS young man I'd go out and make faces at a policeman. Without entering into the merits of the scrap between Messrs. Buckley of Somerville and Doherty of Charlestown, I would advise the former to either come across with an explanation or a wallop. Mr. Doherty speaks up like a real human being about that manly art of self-defence business, and now that it has gone this far someone will have to come clean. Here's Doherty's letter:

Straight Dope, Boston American.

Dear Sir—In your column of February 10 I notice a challenge of the Valley Fire by W. J. Buckley of Somerville. I wish to state that he is in no wise connected with the Valley Five of Charlestown; and if he still insists on using that name I will have to take a short walk up to Maple street, Somerville, and show him a few tricks in the manly art of self-defence. This is no salve, but just "straight dope," and after he reads my signature at the end of this note he will realize that I mean business. I would see him personally, but I want to let the public know that he is now a member in good standing with the Down and Out Club. Very truly yours,

WILLIAM DOHERTY.

No. 70 Laurence street, Charlestown.

MIKE DONLIN IS WILLING TO SACrifice his work as a thespian and help the Giants in their struggle for the pennant, and there's a reason. As a baseball star, temporarily on the stage, Mike is a hero and "makes good." Without the prestige of being one of the greatest of ball players, Mike would be carrying a spear in the back row, even if he was able to hold a job at all. So it's back to the baseball diamond for Mike long enough to renew the glamor of his halo. If he makes good on the diamond, he's good for some more vaudeville. Verily fame is a fickle and vanishing thing.

NOW THEY THREATEN TO DOCCOOK our Worcester friend Tillinghast. Old Kid Till has been sitting back with a confident smile tipping us off that he had an ace in the hole on that aeroplane stunt. He promised to show down his hand at the Aero show this month, but now he says he won't. Director Flagg, of the Aero Club of New England, says Till is fourflushing on a bobtail and threatens to make him turn the hole card or throw his hand in the discard. Come across, Till, you're delaying the game and gumming the cards.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear Sir—Being a constant reader of your straight dope, I am a young wrestler 122 pounds and have read in your interesting column of Young Leonard, the wrestler. Would you be kind enough to give me the address of his manager. Hoping to see this in your Straight Dope. Excuse my writing please. I remain,

KID VERBONCOEUR.

Putnam, Ct.

Young Leonard is his own manager and a letter addressed to him at Haverhill, Mass., or to this office will reach him. However, if you are looking for a match with him, it might interest you to know that he is a middleweight, and one of the best middleweights in the country. What he would likely do to any 122 pound boy would be a shame. You might write him, but tackle some easier game.

SAILOR BURKE'S ARM THREATENS to suffer another relapse. Billy Jacobs, the New York sport, who has taken the Dixie Kid under his managerial wing, has been trying to get the sailor hooked on for a match. Dixie Kid is a welterweight, but offers to fight Burke and give him the benefit of twenty pounds. The offer has been made and now we're all waiting to hear about the sailor's arm still bothering him, for take it from me he doesn't want any of the brunette person's game in spite of the difference in weight. There are a lot of others who will dodge the Dixie Kid, too.

MAX BAKER, THE LITTLE BOSTON scrapper, who has shown them a whole lot since he went to New York, is being boomed by some of the sport writers over there as the coming featherweight champ. But don't let this trouble you for they make champions in the Gotham papers every day. Baker is a good boy and if he is taken along right has prospects of a good future, but there are several featherweights who do not claim the title who would give him all the game he wants. Here is what one of the New York papers has to say of Max:

Dick Curley has signed up what he claims to be the coming featherweight champion. Max Baker of Boston, is Curley's latest, and if records count for anything Baker will be a troublesome lad for any one that can make 122 pounds. Baker and Pal Moore would be a good attraction for one of the local clubs. The Boston youngster is still a minor and is always in excellent condition. As an amateur he cleaned up in four classes, beating some laws that were fifteen pounds heavier than himself. Since joining the professional ranks Baker has been in eleven contests and won nine times by the knockout route.

Dear Straight Dope, Boston American:

Will you please put in your column to settle a bet. A says that Johnson knocked out Jack O'Brien in three rounds; B says that it was a draw. Who is right?

Your dope is bad about Jeff-Johnson. I would like to bet but my feet got cold and I don't like to buy stockings. A. O.

One of your column readers

Cascade Hill, N. H.

Jack O'Brien and Johnson met but once and that was a six-round bout in Philadelphia on May 19, 1906. No decision was given. I feel sad when I learn of an eminent sport critic disagreeing with me, but such is life.

Good Beer: Yeast

THE fermenting agent in brewing beer is yeast. No matter how good the barley—no matter how well prepared the malt—no matter how choice the hops—if the yeast is wrong the beer is wrong.

In brewing Pfaff's Beer we watch the yeast as closely as the engineer does his water gauge. Yeast is a living organism and requires proper nourishment to keep it in the best condition. The extra care we give is evident in the beer, for Pfaff's is recognized as being in a class by itself—an honest, old-fashioned, pleasing and healthful beer.

Her Off Day--- Or Did It Ever Happen to You

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It began with stabbing her toe when she sprang out of bed to close her window in the morning.

It hurt so that she went back to bed for five minutes to comfort her feelings and ache toe.

That made her late in getting up, so someone got in the bathroom ahead of her and she had to wait ten minutes for her bath.

By that time a tiny frown of impatience wrinkled her forehead and everything had begun to go wrong.

Her hair would not do up properly. Don't you know how aggravating your hair can be when it absolutely refuses to look nice?

So she jerked and pulled and said several things not exactly becoming as issuing from the lips of a "perfect lady."

She was late for breakfast and just missed the express and had to wait ten minutes for the next one.

When she got to the office half an hour late there were several things that needed attention at once, and that was the last straw.

Still with Her

"I can't do everything at once," she snapped to the solid-unnerved little clerk who came to see if one important piece of work had been attended to.

All afternoon things went wrong and her work was behindhand. At six o'clock, with flushed cheeks and a raging headache, she went home.

"What's the matter, dearie?" said her mother, whose loving eyes saw at once that things were not well with her usually sunny little daughter.

"Everything's the matter, and it's all the fault of that horrid stool," kicking it across the room. "I stubbed my toe on it this morning, and it made me late, and nothing has gone right all day. I just hate everything and everybody."

There was a long silence and then, "What time did you get home from the party last night?" said her mother quietly.

What Really Was to Blame

"Half past three; why?"

"Half past three, and you had to be at work at nine o'clock. I think the party and not the stool is to blame for your bad day."

"But, mother, I've got to have some fun. I can't give up everything."

"Don't be so tragic, little daughter; no one wants you to give up everything, but no one can dance all night and work all day without feeling the strain.

"Do you think you earned your salary to-day? Was Mr. ——— satisfied with the work you did? Were you satisfied yourself?"

"No," in a low voice.

"Little girl, as long as you have made up your mind to earn your own living that is the most important thing you have to do. You would think it most unfair if Mr. ——— were to stop to you 'You did not work well to-day, so I will deduct half of your salary,' and yet you only earned about half of it. Through the working day of the week you cannot dance all night and attend to your duties satisfactorily during the day.

Give Up Work or Play

"When you yawn through the hours and long for the end of the day you are thinking of your own physical condition, not of your employer's work. You must either give up work or play."

And the little wage earner listened to these words of wisdom and agreed that the dance had not been worth the long, unhappy day. Perhaps other little wage earners will agree with her. How about it, girls?

SMILES

HOW DID THAT HAPPEN?

MARJORIE GOULD is getting to wed An American citizen. It is said!

BREAKERS AHEAD

"What makes you so sure that suffragette club is in for serious trouble?"

"My wife has just joined it," replied Mr. Meekton.

FRESH, PLEASE

"What do you think of the storage battery cars?"

"I'll sooner have a car fresh from the factory, even if it did cost more than a car out of cold storage."

WHAT A CHANCE

Judge—It seems to me I've seen you before.

Prisoner—You have indeed. I used to give your daughter singing lessons.

Judge—Seven years.

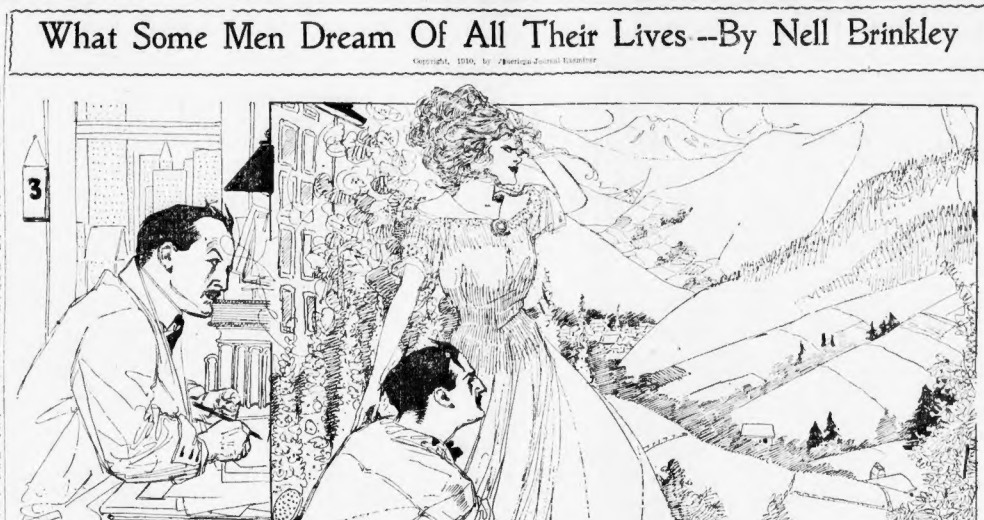
JUST MISSED HIM

"For heaven's sake be careful with that rifle, man!" exclaimed a musketry instructor. "You missed me that time."

"Did I, sergeant? I'm awfully sorry!" responded the unabashed marksman.

What Some Men Dream Of All Their Lives --By Nell Brinkley

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner



He sits in his office and sees a vision of a soft hillside, and down in a vale his house, while he is happy with his wife by his side

EVERY man has a little pet dream.

Even the insignificant, common little man who goes down town on the same train with you every morning. He is homely and retiring, and he sits with his knees drawn together, and non know that Romance has flouted him all his life.

The passing wave of the dream-dyed peacock feathers of her fan have natter once swept his eyes in mockery, but he knows no more of her than that.

"Sure," you think, "if HE had a dream it would stick out on him somewhere. Just look at the unadorned simplicity of him. He isn't even picturesquely commonplace. He is flat and deadly and wears a little faded brown derby and neat, careful clothes."

It's easy to find dreamery and tragedy behind the eyes of the picturesque poor man—he who makes for a good picture. But the little man of the faded brown derby and the nondescript face, we give him no gently melancholy musings, and we dream him no dramas!

For we are careless with our humanizing; inconsistent and miserly with our love eyes and our soft hearts.

And every man has his pet dream.

He has an obscure little den at the bottom of all the tangled ways of his heart. And there the dream lives and breathes in the dark.

Never a Sign of a Dream

Sometimes the little brown derby man is as afraid to put his foot in there as you would be. He wonders at and half doubts its very being there at all as much as you do.

And sometimes the little faded derby man revels in that den in a riotous fashion that you'd never guess by the pale, dull quiet of his eyes.

Dreams don't always show through on the other side. If they only did what perfect exquisites we'd have breaking bread with and footing it along beside us every day. Men go through a quiet, humdrum, busy life till they fold their hands in their decent black and go over the Great Divide, dreaming a dream. Most times they never catch up with even the shadow of its rain bow wings.

And in the meantime they work.

One dreams of being a gypsy and taking the open road that leads around the world. Anyhow—in any fashion; with plenty jingling in his trousers pockets or with nails and buttons there; plenty, or with the wolf an he loves; just to be a-gypsying.

And the gypsy dreamer who has a homesick stirring in his heart for the places he has never seen every time he hears the mellow clanging and the high farewell whistle of an outgoing train, lives all his life in one tiny town, perhaps.

One spends all his days in the shadow of ranked hills—and dreams of some day living by big water.

One thrashes out his years and scores of years by grey, weary, sodden water and monotonous wharves—and dreams of working in sight of the mooly blue wall of the inland mountains.

One dreams of a ranch on the plains, waving purple alfalfa and the far-reaching herds—and he adds on a steel all his days, under a disc of light, seeing the sky when he looks up between the canyon walls on his way back and forth to the stool, and imagining the horizon.

The Best Dream of All.

But the best dream—the dream that some men work at all their lives—is the dream of the plodder for the country. A secret yearning for the plow handles they dream! and the red purple raw earth in the Springtime. Every inch of his house and garden rises up in his mind over and over, till the red roof on the one and the grape-arbor in the other show as red and as purple as if they were alive and true.

He reads garden and flower seed catalogues when the sweet fever of Spring begins to rise in the limbs of the world. Every roof is red and every archway is an arbor.

He plants his little kids and the woman he loves along with the maples and the rose trees in his garden.

But many things rise up to sit on a dream. Sometimes the "missus" likes town. Sometimes it takes more money to be a comfortable country man than it does to be a town man.

But some men dream of it all their lives —big dream or little dream—all the same, they dream!

Prof. Polydore's Remedy---Give Woman Ballot

By IRVING R. BACON

"You are a fool, sir, a downright fool," said Mr. Shields, a pompous food trust magnate, to Professor Polydore, who had endeavored to convince him that low wages and the high price of living were due to monopolies.

"If it were not for what you and others are pleased to call trusts," continued Mr. Shields, "things would be much dearer than they are, for it stands to reason that when a number of big manufacturers unite they can dispense with many employes whom, before the union, they could not do without. And so they are enabled to manufacture and distribute things more cheaply."

"Sir," replied Polydore, "nature undoubtedly designed you for an orator. The long phalanx of your little finger bears evidence of this. I note also by the tremendously big first phalanx of your thumb that you are simply irresistible in ruling people. But, alas! the shortness of that middle one of the three prominent lines which trace their way across your palm is a disheartening symptom!

What the Head Line Showed.

"It is the head line," said Polydore, "and when it is so short, as in your hand, it is a mark infallible that the owner of the hand is not only an ass—pardon me for saying so, but candor compels me to be so frank—but not only an ass, I say, but also a weakling. You are a slave to selfishness and to a horde of other evil passions."

"How dare you speak to me like that?" thundered Mr. Shields.

"The lower third of your hand is big, thick and red—a sign of great self-indulgence," continued Polydore. "Reading this in conjunction with the extremely short head line leaves no alternative but to conclude that you are one of those of whom the Apostle says that "their god is their stomach." Upon the altar of this divinity you would cheerfully sacrifice the entire human race."

"Your ramblings, sir," interrupted Mr. Shields, "have absolutely nothing to do with what you started out to prove. Or do you suppose that slanders are tantamount to a demonstration? Why, sir, never in the whole history of the world was there such a plenty of food-stuffs or such an abundance of money."

"The misfortune is, though," said Polydore, "that both are owned by the same party—the omnivorous trusts."

"I suppose you advocate taking both money and merchandise from the rich and giving them to the poor—a sort of philosophic Robin Hood game?" sneered Mr. Shields.

Polydore for Woman's Suffrage

"You have there a different remedy than that," replied Polydore. "Ballots, being, are going to give the trusts their quietus and make money circulate once more. And you may date this resurrection to your meditations, Mr. Trust Magnate, that women have smoother fingers than men—that is, their hands are not as pronounced as those of men."

"Well, what is the name of sanity and sound sense that has that to do with trusts?" continued Mr. Shields.

"Everything!" replied Polydore. "It shows that women have keener and finer intuitions than men and that, therefore, once they get to balloting the laws which the trusts have been violating so long will be very quickly enforced and more stringent and sweeping ones added."

THE MAN FROM HOME

BY BOOTH TARKINGTON AND HARY LEON WILSON.

SYNOPSIS

Daniel Voorhees Pike, a plain, young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that its ward, Ethel Grainger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage.

Ethel Grainger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric, Sir Aylys and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title.

The Russian Grand Duke vasili is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr Von Grollerhagen.

The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is feared at Sorrento.

For some reason the Countess fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him.

Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric.

Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns.

CHAPTER VIII.
The American.

THE clatter without continued unabated, and Ethel and the Countess walked back to the terrace rampart to stand looking out over the glorious bay.

Horace, still in the seventh heaven of delighted realization, took the Daily Mail from the table on which the Earl had thrown it and seated himself to read beside Lady Creech, who was already deep in the Church Register. The Earl had buried himself in the Fall Mail Gazette and was apparently oblivious to such minor details as an inviting peasant row.

But he bounce in his haughty stirring condition of nerves the uproar was again raising, and he called to Marfano, who was busily setting the table again:

"Marfano, how long is this noise to continue?"

The maitre d'hotel shrugged his ex pressive shoulders and replied:

"How can I know, my lord? We can do nothing."

Melody, who was assisting his chief, smiled covertly at the young man.

The populace fury will not be depart so long as there shall be the chance once again to observe the North American who pulled the automobile with the donkeys!"

The Man From Home.

"Merdi!" cried Marfano, with vigor. "He have confuse me. He have confuse everybody. He will not be content with the dejeune until he have the ham and the egg, and he will have the egg cooked upon but one of two sides, and how in the name of the heaven can we tell which of these two sides?"

Marfano was about to continue his grumbling complaints when from the door way of the hotel there came an interruption. The courier who had spoken with him earlier in the morning stood there and voiced but one word.

"Garcon!" he said softly. But it was like the command of a cavalry officer in its effect, for instantly the maitre d'hotel and his aid stood at attention like trained veterans. The earl evidently was not too deeply immersed to catch the sudden silence, for he looked up from his paper and observed:

"Upon my soul! Who's this?"

Marfano did not turn his head nor relax his attitude of stiff attention, but answered obsequiously:

"It is the Herr von Grollerhagen, a German gentleman, milord."

Hawcastle turned with an amused smile to Horace.

"The man who owns the automobile. Probably made a fortune in sausage."

From within the hotel there came the tones of a heavy though cultivated voice declaiming quietly.

"Nein, nein, Illiberer! 'S macht nichts!" And instantly there came down the steps the German gentleman aforesaid. It was tall and of a commanding presence. He wore a grayish beard and an automobile cap that half concealed the eyes that burned with the authority of generations beneath. Without it was a kindly face, and though there was a stern command in the figure, there was a genial humor and even tenderness too. By no authority could he have been considered well dressed. His clothes seemed rather to have been thrown on negligently.

The little party at the table regarded him with hostility, and Lady Creech turned up her aristocratic nose.

"What a Dreadful Person"

"What a dreadful person!" she said and turned again to her paper.

The German walked sedately across the terrace to the table where the two servitors still stood at attention and lifted his hand in a curt half military salute in acknowledgment of their bow.

"See to my American friend," he said.

"What a terrible person!" remarked Lady Creech again, and Hawcastle bent toward her.

"Undoubtedly, but he speaks English. So be careful."

The gentleman smiled, when from without the gates came a shout of amusement and a wild laughter. Marfano instantly bowed and ran toward the hotel.

"Ha!" he said eagerly. "He return from the kitchen with that national dish."

He hurried from the hotel walking backward and carrying a covered dish, while Ethel turned with a little shudder of disgust to the countess.

"How horrible," she said, and the Frenchwoman patted her shoulder reassuringly.

Laundry Hints

To Wash Comfortables.

Wet the comfortables, then rub well with naphtha soap, hang on the line and turn the hose on them until the water runs clear. Let them hang until dry, then shake them out and your comfortables will be light and fluffy like new ones.

Clothespin Hints.

Try putting the clothespins in the oven until they get real hot, or wash and your fingers will never get cold while putting out a large washing. Also put all the small pieces, such as napkins and handkerchiefs, in a bag or pillow case and pin on the line; it saves much in the wear, as well as time and cold.

Ironing.

When ironing fine white waists or underwear lay a bath towel on ironing board, lay buttoned side on it, and iron over wrong side of garment. Between buttons will be ironed and not any ironed off.

Scorched Clothes.

If you should scorch any colored goods, such as linen, percale, etc., dip instantly in vinegar, then wash and rinse well.

Wash Blankets.

Prepare suds of a good soap, rinse in several warm waters. To dry, use your quilting frames; pin tightly all edges, pinning close together. Dry indoors. Your blankets will be straight.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DOESN'T KNOW HER NAME

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have danced with a young lady at one of the respectable dance halls of this city several times, but do not know her name. As I only came to Boston last September and have no girl friends that I would care to ask, would it be improper on my part if I should ask this aforesaid young lady to accompany me to a class dance? Sincerely, "HOPEFUL."

Boston.

THAT is certainly a peculiar circumstance. Can't you find some one who knows both of you to supply the proper introduction? As you have already danced with her, however, you might ask her her name and invite her to the dance. If you then could both stand the impropriety of dancing without knowing each other, I guess you could live through this affair.

NO CHANCE TO "POP"

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am madly in love with a young lady of twenty, whom I think loves me dearly, also, but every time I call her sister, in spite of all we can do, insists on staying in the room with us so that we cannot talk seriously.

Do you think I am wasting my time there, or how could you suggest that I get rid of the sister? R. A.

IT is proper that the sister should chaperone your visits if you want to propose to the girl you might ask her to go walking with you. I am sure you can contrive in some way to pop the momentous question.

TO-DAY'S BEST STORY

HETTY'S uncle, who was a school teacher, met her in the street one day and asked her if she was going with the picnic party.

"No, I ain't going."

"Oh, my little dear," said her uncle, "you must not say 'I ain't going.' You must say, 'I am not going,'" and he proceeded to give her a little lesson in grammar. "You are not going. He is not going. We are not going. You are not going. They are not going. Now, can you say all that, Hetty?"

"Yes, I can," she replied, making a curtsey. "There ain't nobody going."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

For some reason or other, and perhaps by no process of reasoning whatever, the bear prophets in Wall street have fixed upon to-morrow as the day of reckoning for the bulls.

$ $ $

It has been carefully figured out by those who perfer the short side that the advance from the low level of last Tuesday has gone far enough and that a decided recession is due. They insist that this is a legitimate bear period and that liquidation has not yet run its course.

$ $ $

There is a strength in the technical situation which has encouraged the bull party greatly and yet this has not tended to dishearten the bears.

$ $ $

There also has been a great diminution in the number of stop-loss orders, which betokens more confidence in the situation as well as the near future, and while sentiment in the Street itself has not been proportionately improved the public at large is more inclined to come into the market than it was.

$ $ $

Railroads report a very heavy movement of nearly all classes of freight, which goes to show, better than anything else, that there is no particular let-down in business. In addition to the traffic now going on there is a vast volume of business in sight.

$ $ $

In fact, it is becoming almost safe for investors to come out from their bomb-proof hiding places. A distinctly better feeling prevails in State Street. The public has ceased clamoring about things that are not going to happen. The public also realizes that President Taft has no intention of destroying business.

$ $ $

General opinion in regard to the Federal incorporation bills is that even if these become laws, very few of the trusts will take advantage of them, because they are not deemed practicable. Judge Gary of the Steel Trust says that if practicable the Steel Trust will be reincorporated under these laws, but there is no moral or legal obligation to do so, and investigation develops an unwillingness everywhere to take advantage of them. The Government cannot regulate trusts unless the trusts come willingly and ask to be regulated. Therefore, no investor need have any fear for his property.

$ $ $

In anticipation of this inquiry, a number of houses are preparing pamphlets showing the total debt and the yield of the bonds of various cities. These circulars will be issued within two or three weeks.

SUPPORT GIVEN STOCK MARKET

STATE STREET, Feb. 14.—President Taft's speech in New York Saturday night proves an unsettling factor to Wall Street prices, and declines of 1 to 3 points occurred shortly after the opening.

This hysteria did not last long as support in the way of good buying brought prices back again. The recovery was not complete, but after the first effect had passed a better tone prevailed.

Apparently the London market was ruggedly the bears on this side for prices of American stocks from that centre were decidedly weak, with declines of 1⅛ points recorded in Amalgamated and Rock Island common. Other stocks were upwards of a point below Friday's final.

Canadian Pacific was an exception to Wall street's weakness and actually rose a point. Reports were current that the "Soo" Line directors would increase the dividend rate to-day.

Rock Island came 1⅞ lower at the opening and fell a point more, but rallied 1½ from the low. Wabash preferred took a 2-point drop, but recovered most of it.

The metal stocks were also very weak. Amalgamated dropped over 3 points and Smelters 2½. Good recoveries followed, however.

Copper stocks opened lower in the local market, but declines did not exceed 1½ points, and that in Lake stock.

The slight lessening in the activity of the iron industry is being offset by an increased demand for copper metal. Of much importance is the fact that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is to expend $8,000,000 of which $5,000,000 will go into the roadway and $3,000,000 into equipment.

Where Pianos Are Sacrificed

Where brainy, economical people BUY ANY MAKE PIANO ---RIGHT

A great many people are ignorant of the fact that the best possible opportunity to buy a piano at the lowest possible price is to get one at our Storage Salesrooms. The finest pianos that are made go almost for a song. Some pianos of the best makes that have been used only slightly, and in the best of homes, are sold for prices that seem shamefully low. Each piano gets our sacrifice tag and it goes to the wise and early buyer. Come at once and look us over.

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

For some reason or other, and perhaps by no process of reasoning whatever, the bear prophets in Wall street have fixed upon to-morrow as the day of reckoning for the bulls.

$ $ $

It has been carefully figured out by those who perfer the short side that the advance from the low level of last Tuesday has gone far enough and that a decided recession is due. They insist that this is a legitimate bear period and that liquidation has not yet run its course.

$ $ $

There is a strength in the technical situation which has encouraged the bull party greatly and yet this has not tended to dishearten the bears.

$ $ $

There also has been a great diminution in the number of stop-loss orders, which betokens more confidence in the situation as well as the near future, and while sentiment in the Street itself has not been proportionately improved the public at large is more inclined to come into the market than it was.

$ $ $

Railroads report a very heavy movement of nearly all classes of freight, which goes to show, better than anything else, that there is no particular let-down in business. In addition to the traffic now going on there is a vast volume of business in sight.

$ $ $

In fact, it is becoming almost safe for investors to come out from their bomb-proof hiding places. A distinctly better feeling prevails in State Street. The public has ceased clamoring about things that are not going to happen. The public also realizes that President Taft has no intention of destroying business.

$ $ $

General opinion in regard to the Federal incorporation bills is that even if these become laws, very few of the trusts will take advantage of them, because they are not deemed practicable. Judge Gary of the Steel Trust says that if practicable the Steel Trust will be reincorporated under these laws, but there is no moral or legal obligation to do so, and investigation develops an unwillingness everywhere to take advantage of them. The Government cannot regulate trusts unless the trusts come willingly and ask to be regulated. Therefore, no investor need have any fear for his property.

$ $ $

In anticipation of this inquiry, a number of houses are preparing pamphlets showing the total debt and the yield of the bonds of various cities. These circulars will be issued within two or three weeks.

SUPPORT GIVEN STOCK MARKET

STATE STREET, Feb. 14.—President Taft's speech in New York Saturday night proves an unsettling factor to Wall Street prices, and declines of 1 to 3 points occurred shortly after the opening.

This hysteria did not last long as support in the way of good buying brought prices back again. The recovery was not complete, but after the first effect had passed a better tone prevailed.

Apparently the London market was riggedly the bears on this side for prices of American stocks from that centre were decidedly weak, with declines of 1⅞ points recorded in Amalgamated and Rock Island common. Other stocks were upwards of a point below Friday's final.

Canadian Pacific was an exception to Wall street's weakness and actually rose a point. Reports were current that the "Soo" Line directors would increase the dividend rate to-day.

Rock Island came 1⅝ lower at the opening and fell a point more, but rallied 1⅞ from the low. Wabash preferred took a 2-point drop, but recovered most of it.

The metal stocks were also very weak. Amalgamated dropped over 3 points and Smelters 2½. Good recoveries followed, however.

Copper stocks opened lower in the local market, but declines did not exceed 1½ points, and that in Lake stock.

The slight lessening in the activity of the iron industry is being offset by an increased demand for copper metal. Of much importance is the fact that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is to expend $8,000,000, of which $5,000,000 will go into the roadway and $3,000,000 into equipment.

Only One Roxbury Storage Salesrooms

Where Pianos Are Sacrificed

Where brainy, economical people BUY ANY MAKE PIANO ---RIGHT

A great many people are ignorant of the fact that the best possible opportunity to buy a piano at the lowest possible price is to get one at our Storage Salesrooms. The finest pianos that are made go almost for a song. Some pianos of the best makes that have been used only slightly, and in the best of homes, are sold for prices that seem shamefully low. Each piano gets our sacrifice tag and it goes to the wise and early buyer. Come at once and look us over.

Some Reasons Why Food Costs More

A Good Deal of the Increase Goes to the Farmer, LUCKILY

And Gold Production Makes the Dollar Cheaper

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner

Trust conspiracy, extortion and monopoly by a few big meat dealers, backed up by the facilities of cold storage methods, are responsible for part of the increase in food prices.

There isn't any doubt that investigation, legislation and imprisonment would help, and ought to help, to solve the food question.

The intelligent man wants to look at all sides of the question. He realizes that an important event usually has more than one cause, and he wants to know the different causes.

The high price of food isn't due alone to the extortions of the Beef Trust, or to the patient waiting and storing of food made possible by cold storage.

One very important and very interesting cause of high prices is the great increase in GOLD PRODUCTION.

You know, of course, that the basis of all prices and of all commercial transactions is GOLD. A certain amount of gold makes a dollar; that amount of gold—the ease or the difficulty with which it can be procured—underlies prices and conditions.

Within recent years many millions, tens of millions and hundreds of millions, of gold have been added to the world's gold supply. In Alaska, California, Australia, Africa, Korea—all over the world—new gold supplies and new gold production are developed yearly.

As gold becomes more plentiful, you can realize that the amount of meat, or wheat, that a given amount of gold will buy diminishes.

You can't doubt this, for you have silver to prove it to you. Men of middle age remember when silver ranked with gold as a precious metal. Within very recent times in America the silver dollar has even been at a premium over the gold dollar.

Then silver began to develop in vast quantities. One silver bonanza after another came to light. The piece of silver that passed with the government stamp on it for one dollar could be bought at the mouth of the silver mine for forty cents. The world said: "Silver is getting too plentiful; it won't do for money any longer." And after a fight, in which those that wanted cheap money were defeated, silver went down and gold became the one standard of value.

The production of gold has been enormous, and is constantly increasing. AND IT HAS HAD ITS EFFECT ON INCREASING PRICES. The men that work haven't been able to get very much gold for their day's labor in spite of the extra plentifulness of gold. Whereas those that have things to sell have insisted on a payment of more gold, or more dollars, for their products, and sometimes, legitimately in their regular course of trade, and sometimes dishonestly through criminal combination, THEY HAVE SUCCEEDED IN GETTING MORE FOR WHAT WE EAT AND WEAR.

If you doubt that increased gold production could make the dollar cheaper, and its buying power less, ask yourself what would happen if some one suddenly discovered a mountain of gold.

Every little while mountains of copper and iron are found. A very small gold mountain—say a mountain as big as a city block—would throw the finances of the world into disorder, make a complete readjustment of the money of all the nations necessary, and temporarily send prices upward with a fearful rush.

When you are talking about the higher cost of living, remember that a piece of gold of a certain weight and fineness with the government stamp on it IS THE AMERICAN DOLLAR. And as the gold out of which those little stamped pieces are made is produced in greater quantities, the buying power of each piece becomes less.

It is true that the great financial transactions are based largely on credits. By our system of checks and notes, the people spend more than a thousand dollars, and pay more than a thousand dollars of debts, for every dollar of actual money.

Nevertheless, the great gold production has its effect, and you feel it when you pay your bills.

Another and a more cheerful feature in the increased cost of living is THE INCREASED PROSPERITY OF THE FARMER.

The farmer in all ages has been the under dog, the man kept down, the man WHO HAS FED ALL THE OTHERS and who has got in return barely enough to feed and clothe himself.

The farmer has always been the last in the world's history to share in better conditions. But his turn in America appears to have come.

The farmer is twice as rich to-day as he ever was in the history of America.

THE FARMER, THOUGH YOU MAY NOT KNOW IT, BUYS HALF OF ALL THE AUTOMOBILES MADE IN AMERICA NOW, OR MORE THAN HALF!

The farmer now gets for his hogs, alive and squealing on the hoof, JUST DOUBLE THE AMOUNT THAT HE WAS VERY GLAD TO GET A FEW YEARS AGO.

He gets more for his wheat, for his corn, his eggs, his butter and milk.

And, besides getting bigger prices, the farmer, thanks to scientific agriculture, GETS MORE OUT OF EACH ACRE.

You understand, of course, that EVERY DOLLAR ADDED TO THE PRICE THE FARMER RECEIVES FOR FOOD PRODUCED MEANS A DOLLAR ADDED TO THE COST OF LIVING.

The middleman simply adds to the price he charges you every increase in the price paid the farmer.

It would be impossible to say by just how much the income of the farmers has increased during the past years, but the sum is enormous, running into thousands of millions.

There was a time in America when you could buy good pork for six or eight cents a pound, and the choicest cuts for ten cents.

Two days ago, at the magnificent agricultural experiment station in Wooster, Ohio, the government representative in charge of the hog fattening department pointed with pride at a half dozen marvellous fat and sleepy hogs ready for the market. He said:

"They will be shipped to Pittsburg to-morrow, and they are worth eight cents and a quarter on the hoof alive."

Naturally, when the farmer can get eight cents and a quarter for his pork alive—which means that from the weight must be deducted the bristles and all of the other waste—no butcher can sell pork at the old prices. When the farmer gets eight and a quarter cents for his hog alive where he formerly got four cents, or five cents at the most, you may be sure that the butcher will add the extra cost to your bill, and also a little extra profit.

You want to understand the different aspects of the food problem, since each man wants to discuss public affairs intelligently.

Those that deal in food products should be watched, and prosecuted when they conspire deliberately to increase prices.

Those that utilize cold storage possibilities in a criminal way to withhold the food supply and put up the prices, and at the same time distribute an inferior, cold storage product, should be prosecuted and punished.

But we must remember, in order to be just, that a good deal of the increased price is going into the pockets of the farmer, who is well entitled to it. And the people as a whole must remember that as gold production increases and gold dollars become more plentiful, prices of necessities are bound to go up, and it is the business of the average man to see that the price of HIS DAY'S LABOR GOES UP.

It is better to be glad that the farmer puts his hog on the back, happy in the possession of a higher reward for the fattening process. See if you can pat yourself on the back, conscious that you have done your share toward making the added value of a hardworking American citizen keep pace at least with the added value of a drowsy American hog.

Much Obliged!

Governor Draper AT LAST Does the Right Thing

The American is very glad to be able to say a few kind words for Governor Draper. This newspaper has not had an opportunity in the past to praise the Governor of Massachusetts because he has always been AGAINST PUBLICITY in State and municipal affairs, which he, as Governor, very largely controls, and because he has always taken the side of the special interests and the corporations AGAINST THE PEOPLE.

A few days ago the American, discussing the Southbridge Savings Bank steal, predicted that Governor Draper would not take any action looking to a re-organization of the Bank Commissioner's office or in any way assist in making the auditing of the accounts of the savings banks a REAL INVESTIGATION instead of the slipshod inquiry that now prevails.

The American was wrong. Its prediction has not come true. This newspaper did the Governor an injustice, and we are very glad to be able to say that Draper has really risen to a PROPER CONCEPTION OF HIS DUTIES.

It is hard to see how even Governor Draper could help but be impressed by the alarming revelations of the inadequacy of the present methods of investigating and auditing the accounts of savings banks. His demand that the Legislature take up the question at once to end that not only shall there be an examination of the assets of the banks under the Bank Commissioner's supervision, but that the auditing of the accounts shall be made COMPULSORY by experts named by the Bank Commissioner, has the true ring.

The Legislature CAN AND WILL DO just what Governor Draper wants done. Its members follow his advice always. Now it seems safe to say that Bank Commissioner Chapin is going to have an opportunity to safeguard the interests of depositors, so that in the future there cannot be a repetition of the Southbridge disaster.

And the American wishes to say further, that after a complete investigation of the recommendations made by Bank Commissioner Chapin—before the Southbridge looting was known—IF CARRIED OUT, would have saved to the depositors their hard earned money and would have made it impossible for Hall to have stolen the enormous sum he did.

Commissioner Chapin is a new man in office. He has never had any sympathy with the present loose and ineffective methods of examination, but all his efforts to install a proper system of auditing have proved futile. He was obliged to carry out the law as he found it on the statute books, and he is in no way responsible for the condition that now exists at Southbridge.

There has been some harsh criticism of Commissioner Chapin. The American has published some of it. We believe, after the fullest investigation, that Commissioner Chapin MEANS TO DO RIGHT and has tried to do right, but that he has not had the support that he should have had.

Governor Draper's message to the Legislature and his insistence upon new legislation will give Commissioner Chapin the opportunity he desires. The savings banks of Massachusetts should be as firm and secure as the rock of Gibraltar.
